Shift Liquor Control From Revenue Office To Board, Jury Urges

RALPH McGILL

A Letter From Ghana

Some months ago an able, sincere and dedicated young Negro newspaperman took his family and went to Ghana, the new African nation once the old Gold Coast colony of Great Britain.

A student of New York University, a Nieman Fellow of Harvard, he had done all his work in Memphis, Tenn. and Atlanta, Ga. As managing editor of the Atlanta Daily World he had, by his personal integrity, balance and consistent policy of going by the facts, made himself widely known and respected. An Ogden Reid Fellowship enabled him to make this African study.

In a letter from Accra, capital city of Ghana, he writes his impressions after three months of active leg-work observation. His major observations are these:

"I don't have to tell you that this is really fascinating country. For the past three months I have been moving between Ghana, Togoland, Dahomey, French territories and Nigeria. The experience is like moving across three worlds at the same time. What I have been able to see during this short time, I could not have been able to acquire through reading

Intense Feeling

"The feeling of nationalism is intense through West Africa. There seems to be no course other than final self-government for the millions who have experienced colonial rule. But despite the deep feeling for self-government, Africans seemingly have acquired no strong desire for Russian communism. The millions still look to the West for leadership, skills and financial aid. It's frightening the way they look to America for so much. The constant cry, in Ghana and here in Nigeria, 'Send us more Americans to help us build the kind of country we need.'

"But there is also criticism; criticism against our foreign policy, our moves in the Middle East, with Red China and the support we continue to give France. France's colonial past and present make her unpopular. She holds a total area here 20 times larger than continental France.

"We are also hit on South Africa's racism, and more so of late on our school situation. Little Rock makes the headlines almost daily. One newspaper in Lagos, Nigeria, ran the complete text of the U.S. Constitution. Some of the questions asked about Faubus and Gov. Almond of Virginia are becoming more and more difficult to answer. One cannot hide the fact; Racism is hurting us in Africa. But one cannot become too discouraged, for at least the Africans are still open-minded about our problems.

"My trip has brought me in contact with some very interesting stories. Ghana's 'one party' politics, for example, is interesting to observe. Nigeria is split three ways in its politics, natural regions and tribalism.

Three Leaders

"Nigeria has three leaders, almost equally strong. Each is fighting for control and wants to become the first prime minister if the country is granted independence in 1960. When Nigeria is granted independence in 1960 it will be the largest country in all Africa, some 35,000,000 people with self-government.

"While it fails in national unity like Ghana, it has the population, a compact market with potential resources that could make it a big producer for export. It has the largest port in all West Africa with the exception of the Ivory Coast. But a plan has already been drawn up that will expand facilities far above those of the Ivory Coast."

These are the more pertinent paragraphs.

Events since about 1918 have produced an explosion in Asia and Africa. Two-fifths of the world's population is in two countries—India and China. Africa's relatively sparse population is 200 million. To illustrate this picture more clearly, 15 of every 16 persons in the world are NOT Americans.

Whitman Says Check Was a Loan

By WILLIAM M. BATES

State School Board Chairman George P. Whitman Jr. said Friday that the $7,500 cashier's check he gave a former official of the state Purchasing Department was a legitimate loan that was later repaid.

This was the explanation that Whitman gave several members of the school board concerning the check he gave to W. C. Massee, who resigned Wednesday as assistant purchasing agent.

Whitman, it was learned, contended there was nothing irregular or improper about the transaction with Massee. He said he made the loan to Massee on March 1, 1957, and that Massee repaid it in cash seven months later.

Whitman gave his version of the check matter at an informal session of the school board Friday at Macon. Six of the 10 members had gone to Macon for the dedication of a new physical education building at the Academy of the Blind.

Whitman has promised to give a

Jekyll Rest Is Offered 12 Miners by Griffin

Twelve Canadian miners rescued in the Springhill, N.S., disaster were invited Friday night by Gov. Griffin to come to Georgia as his personal guests to rest and recuperate from the ordeal.

The 12 were dug out alive after being trapped for six days 13,000 feet below the mine's entrance. Gov. Griffin was on a hunting trip in Canada during the disaster.

"After your harrowing experience," Griffin said, "I can think of nothing more restful and wholesome than a vacation in the Georgia sunshine." He invited the survivors and their families to be his guests at Jekyll Island during their convalescence.

Whitman Resold Land to School

Chairman George P. Whitman Jr. of the State Board of Education last year sold a plot of land to the Fulton County Board of Education at a profit on the same day he bought the land.

Deed records in Fulton Superior Court showed Friday that Whitman sold less than half the land he bought for two-thirds of what he paid for the entire tract.

Records showed that on June 19, 1957, Whitman paid about $33,000 for 50 acres of land on Janice drive in College Park, which he purchased from Mrs. Marie A. Nash.

The same day, the deeds showed, Whitman sold slightly over 22 acres of the same land to the county school board for just under $22,000.

Both transactions were recorded in Superior Court under warranty deeds on June 20, 1957.

Norman Aaron, assistant superintendent of county schools, said the school board had been looking for a high school site in that area "for a long, long time."

Negotiations for the property purchase from Whitman—essentially "dickering about the price"—went on for "several months," Aaron said.

When the school board first became interested in the site, someone else owned it, Aaron said. "We heard George was buying or bought it and we started dickering with him on the price," Aaron explained.

The site in question was the only property which could be found in the area where the school board wanted to build a new high school, Aaron pointed out.

The official said the school board had "no way" of knowing how much Whitman had paid for the land, but added that the per acre price was "in line with what we have been paying."

"For youth guidance."

That's just a little more than the amount missing from this year's lagging $2,359,656 Community Services drive, now stretching almost a week past the official deadline Atlanta volunteer campaigners and Atlanta donors missed.

Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, the "Y's Boys' and Girls' Clubs, Salvation Army and Jewish Community Centers keep youngsters off the street, channel their energies, teach them skills and values, give them early lessons in how to get along with others.

Community Services puts a mighty low price tag on all this: $753,532.

Receipt Law Is Endorsed By Williams

Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams endorsed most of the recommendations for new Revenue Department laws made Friday by the Fulton County Grand Jury.

He said he was in "full accord" with proposals:

1. To make it a misdemeanor for a taxpayer to pay taxes without receiving an official receipt.

2. To make it a misdemeanor for a tax agent to accept payments without giving receipts.

3. To make it a criminal offense to cheat on Merit System examinations.

COULDN'T TELL

That "rumored practice" has "placed officials in the position where they would be unable to tell by the eligible list of the Merit System whether or not an applicant for employment was qualified," Williams declared.

The commissioner had some reservations about other grand jury suggestions.

Whereas the jurors had recommended legislation to make it a misdemeanor to file or accept an unsigned sales tax return, Williams asserted that a "better method . . . would be that any taxpayer who filed an unsigned tax return could not claim a bar to prosecution for failing to sign a return."

SAYS CITIES CONTROL

The grand jury also criticized the centralizing of power in the commissioner's hands to pass on liquor licenses.

Williams replied that authority to pass on licenses rests principally with city and county governments.

"If any change were to be made," he said, "it should be . . . by adding other officials to the Revenue Commissioner to

State's Finances Look Brighter

By BRUCE GALPHIN

The financial crisis facing the incoming Vandiver administration may be easing, a rosy Revenue Department report indicated Friday.

Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams said collections for October, 1958, were almost $1.5 million higher than in the same month last year.

At that rate, collections for the year ending June 30, 1959, could be $15 million to $18 million higher than in fiscal 1958. Williams, however, merely stuck by his prediction of at least a $9 million increase.

HEALTHY GAINS

The report Friday indicated Georgia has ridden out the recession. The two best indicators of prosperity—sales and motor fuel taxes—both registered healthy gains.

Sales and use tax collections were up $689,000 from last year and motor fuel taxes $506,000.

During recent years, ordinary economic growth in Georgia has produced annual increases in tax receipts of about three per cent.

STATES DROP

During fiscal 1958, however, the rate of growth fell off sharply. Tax receipts rose about one per cent, or roughly $3 million.

During the same period, Williams said, other states' revenues were dropping as much as 15 per cent, however.

Georgia definitely seems to have weathered the worst of the recession, Williams asserted.

Collections have been improving monthly during the fiscal year which began July 1. During the first four months of the year, receipts have risen $4,146,813.26 over the same period in fiscal 1958.

MILLION A MONTH

That is better than $1 million a month.

Leaders of the incoming administration have been struggling with the fact that state spending is presently at the rate of $330 million a year, whereas revenues in fiscal 1958 were $318 million.

The improved collections, even if they hold up through the coming year, will not entirely solve their problems. They still must deal with a built-in increase of $7 million or so in the Minimum Foundation Program for Education, as well as increasing demands from the Highway Dept. and other units of government.

Lockheed Sells Atom Reactor To U. of Texas

Sale of a sub-critical nuclear reactor to the University of Texas was revealed today by Lockheed Aircraft's nuclear products branch at Marietta. Carl Kotchian, Lockheed vice president and Georgia division general manager, said work on the reactor is already under way. The reactor is to be installed at the university in Austin, Texas.

Lockheed officials indicated they anticipate orders for a substantial number of reactors.

Says Laxity Encouraged Embezzling

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

"Loose handling of tax proceeds" in the State Revenue Department created "obvious opportunity for embezzlement," the outgoing Fulton County Grand Jury charged Friday.

The September-October term jury said its investigation of the revenue department "resulted in the uncovering of over $100,000 of funds which had been embezzled by officials of that department."

"SUSPICIOUS" PAYMENTS

"While officials of the revenue department embezzled the funds, other persons assisted the embezzlement by indiscretions in the manner in which sales tax payments were made," the jury declared.

Stinging term-end presentments of the grand jury, which was discharged by Judge Virlyn B. Moore, also charged:

1. That two unidentified state legislators, a commissioner of the State Game and Fish Commission and a board member of the State Department of Commerce "made payments of large sums in cash to sales tax officials" without geting receipts and under "suspicious circumstances."

Two more liquor firms included in re-indictment of Williams on larceny after trust charges. Story on Page Six.

WOULD SHIFT CONTROL

2. That officials and employes in the revenue department obtained copies of the State Merit System examination and helped revenue job applicants cheat on merit examinations.

3. That the liquor industry should be removed from control of the revenue commissioner and placed under a board. It said members of the industry "might be inclined to do certain things which they would not be inclined to do were they not under the direct domination of one individual."

4. That affidavits circulated among liquor dealers in connection with their contributions to the now-defunct fund to combat

Forced to Visit Mother, Johnny, Mary Flee Police

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Two Atlanta youngsters who told a Superior Court judge they'd rather go to jail than to spend 24 hours with their mother, Friday night made a fire escape exit from an enforced visit to her and eluded a deputy sheriff assigned to guard the visit.

A unique order by Superior Court Judge H. O. Hubert Jr. directed Johnny Jackson, 16, and his little sister, Mary Elizabeth, 12, to spend every other Friday night with their mother and directed their father, Oscar H. Jackson, to pay $25 to employ a deputy sheriff to force them to remain with her.

While home-going Decatur citizens looked on with interest late Friday, Johnny and Mary Elizabeth slipped down a fire escape in the rear of the Candler Hotel in Decatur and sped down Church street with their mother, a 77-year-old deputy and Decatur police in hot pursuit. The youngsters returned home by bus about 2½ hours later.

"I was going to lock them in their mother's room and put my chair outside the door and sit there until Saturday afternoon," Deputy W. B. Mayo said. "But they got here and got away before I had a chance."

The mother, Mrs. Mildred Eleanor Day Jackson, has had only part-time custody of the children since she was divorced from their father eight years ago. In recent months they have refused to stay with her, running away when their father left. Two weeks ago she called the police because Johnny had hidden a tape recorder under the bed.

"Johnny told me she was hateful to them and said mean things to them," Jackson reported, "and I didn't believe it could be as bad as he said. He said he could prove it if he had a tape recorder and I rented one for him. She found it and called the police."

Mrs. Jackson, who works as a companion in the home of a prominent Atlanta family during the week, renting a room in Decatur for her children's visit every other Friday, said Jackson had her committed to a mental institution and poisoned her children's minds against her. She has since had her sanity legally restored.

Jackson, a painter who is remarried and lives at 2687 Osborne Rd., Brookhaven, said his former wife "abused" the chil-

Fire Promotion Is Called Illegal

Election of Battalion Chief Luther W. Guthrie to succeed the late Johnny Carpenter as first assistant chief of the Atlanta fire department was illegal, Gen. Carl T. Sutherland, city personnel director, charged Friday.

He warned disregard for the law "will invite a return to the spoils system."

In letters to Mayor Hartsfield and members of the fire board, Sutherland said the board, which unanimously chose Guthrie at a special meeting Thursday night, failed to comply with merit system charter provisions.

Guthrie was sixth on register, but only the first four names were certified and only the first four could be considered until they had been rejected and other certifications asked, Sutherland contended.

Fire Chief C. C. Styron urged election of C. T. Ragsdale, second assistant chief, who led the eligible list with a mark of 94.5 per cent. Guthrie stood sixth with a grade of 85.8 per cent.

Ald. William T. (Bill) Knight called another special meeting of the fire board for 1 p.m. Monday at the city hall to "be sure that the law is trekked."

The board chairman expressed the belief that the board will stand by its selection of Guthrie.

Names of Ragsdale, Raymond W. McGill, in charge of training, and Battalion Chiefs Collins H. Hilderbrand and C. C. Styron Jr., son of Fire Chief Styron, were contained on the list originally certified, Sutherland said, because Hilderbrand and Styron tied for third place.

Outlaw Atom Tests Forever, Reds Ask

By DREW MIDDLETON
(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

GENEVA—The Soviet Union Friday offered the United States and Britain a draft agreement for immediate banning of nuclear tests forever.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, leader of the Russian delegation, announced his government's offer at a public session on the opening day of the three-power conference on suspension of nuclear tests under international control.

By stressing the cessation of nuclear weapons tests rather than organization of a control system the Russian delegate underlined the fundamental difference between East and West. Tsarapkin declared that if the United States and the United Kingdom would sign an agreement the Soviet Union would discontinue testing "immediately."

AMBASSADOR WADSWORTH

The United States' position was explained by Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, chairman of the American delegation. He tied the U.S. offer to suspend tests on a year-to-year basis to the installation and effective working of an inspection system and satisfactory progress on "major and substantial arms control measures."

The British, although not as explicit, took the same general line.

"We are negotiating for the installation of a control system," David Ormsby-Gore said. This system, he pointed out, would extend beyond the three nations at the conference.

"We are negotiating for the ultimate installation of a worldwide system effecting many countries who are not represented here."

TECHNICALLY FEASIBLE

The conference's work will be based on conclusions of a group of international scientists who met at Geneva from July 1 to Aug. 21 this year. These scientists concluded it is "technically feasible" to establish with certain limitations "a workable and effective control system to detect violations of an agreement on the world-wide suspension of nuclear weapons."

Tsarapkin's opening speech accepted the principle that "cessation of tests of nuclear weapons can be controlled."

Western sources disagreed with this interpretation of the experts conclusions. The experts, they pointed out, had agreed that tests could be controlled. But they had not agreed on practical arrangements for such control.

Chiang, 72, Has Eye on Mainland

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek spelled out on his 72nd birthday Friday his hope of regaining the mainland on the wings of an anti-Communist uprising.

The veteran Nationalist leader, who at U.S. urging reluctantly renounced force as the main weapon for achieving his dream, sent a message read to a Youth Corps rally.

"To carry out our mission of anti-Communist and national survival, we depend upon political more than military means," he said. "As I have said before, 30 per cent military plus 70 per cent political."

Nationalist quarters have made clear that by political means they mean stirring up a rebellion that will topple the Peiping regime.

Strangler Leads Police to 2 Bodies

Mrs. Judy Ann Dull

Shirley Ann Bridgeford

Associated Press Wirephotos

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—An amateur photographer who confessed the rape-slayings of three young women, two of them models, Friday led authorities to two of their bodies on the desert northeast of here.

Boyish-faced Harvey M. Glatman, 30, an ex-convict from Los Angeles, told police he kidnaped his victims, raped them, forced them to pose for nude photographs and then strangled them with a cord.

Glatman was captured Monday night when a highway patrol motorcycle officer chanced by as he struggled with another model, Lorraine Vigil, 27, just off Santa Ana Freeway in Orange County near Tustin.

Glatman led a posse Friday to the remains of two victims in the uninhabited Earthquake Valley section of Anza State Park 80 miles northeast of here. The location is more than 100 miles south of Los Angeles.

The victims, all from the Los Angeles area, were identified as Ruth Rita Mercado, former WAF, 24, who had been missing since last July, and Mrs. Shirley Ann Bridgeford, 24, mother of two, missing since last March.

The third victim, police said, was identified as blonde model Mrs. Judy Ann Dull, 19, West Hollywod. An unidentified body found near Indio, Calif., last December, was believed to be hers.

Meanwhile, in Albany, N.Y., Friday, Glatman was identified as the "phantom bandit" who operated in that city in 1946.

Miss Vigil might have been Glatman's fourth victim had she not put up a terrific fight.

She was struggling with Glatman Monday night when motorcycle Patrolman T. F. Mulligan, Costa Mesa, Calif., passed on Santa Ana Freeway and spotted the two battling on the ground near Glatman's parked car. Miss Vigil said she had managed to wrest away Glatman's gun, but didn't know how to fire it. A bullet Glatman had fired grazed her leg.

President Labels Democrats Squabbling 'Gloomdogglers'

By the Associated Press

President Eisenhower blasted the Democrats Friday night as apostles of doom on the nation's economy and bitter squabblers on such issues as civil rights, and he said that unemployment had declined by 300,000 in October.

The Democrats meanwhile raised partisan cries of their own, including renewed claims of victory in next Tuesday's elections.

Eisenhower traveled to Baltimore for this last presidential speech of the campaign which will decide, among other important things, which party will control Congress in the two years ahead.

In his speech, Eisenhower coined a word for the critics of his economic policies—"gloomdogglers."

Eisenhower added: "One 'gloomdoggler'—a senator—actually said the recession was—and I am quoting exactly—'planned, premeditated and predesigned by this administration.'"

Campaigning in Duluth, Minn., Sen. Humphrey said, "The President now appears belatedly but understandably sensitive over my expose more than a year ago of evidence indicating that we were entering a 'planned recession.'"

"Before the President engages in more political name-calling, however, it might be well for him to review the testimony of his own undersecretary of the Treasury, Randolph Burgess, before the Senate Finance Committee in August, 1957, in which Mr. Burgess concurred in recommendations of the First National City Bank of New York that the number of jobs should be held down to hold back the pressure of wage demands," Humphrey said.

"In the civil rights area," Ike said, "the Democrats have been too busy battling with each other to have any time left for the rest of the nation."

A Roundup

Some other key Eisenhower quotes:

"Today, America—and all the world — knows that in less than four years we are rapidly closing the gap (in missile development) that we inherited. In satellites, Sputniks have been matched by Explorers, Vanguards and Pioneers.

"We are moving ahead. Recovery is on the march. All across America things are good. They get better every day."

Even as Eisenhower's words were going out to the voters, Sen. Smithers (D-Fla) predicted a Democratic gain of at least 12 Senate seats in the new Congress. The Democrats had a 49-47 edge in the last one.

Smathers and Chairman Paul Butler of the Democratic National Committee had Halloween angles to offer.

The senator said: "The Democrats are winning because the public is rejecting—finally and conclusively — the Halloween 'scare-'em-silly' technique that Republicans are desperately trying to put over."

Even before Eisenhower went on the air—the ABC-TV network was employed to carry his speech nationwide, Butler was getting in his digs.

The Democratic chairman said Eisenhower had a great opportunity in this telecast: "He can abandon his ghost-written scare-words and talk sense about the real issues of this campaign."

Butler added that Eisenhower could "re-establish the image of a fair and just man paying honest tribute to the Democrats who have put welfare of country ahead of partisan gain in the last Congress."

Russia Denounces Iran for U.S. Treaty

By MAX FRANKEL
(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW—The Soviet government warned Iran Friday that its new military pact with the United States constituted a "hostile" act subjecting the Soviet southern fronier to "immediate danger."

Under the circumstances, Moscow said, it was clearly impossible for President Voroshilov to go through with his tentative plan to visit Tehran in the near future.

Foreign Minister Gromyko summoned the Iranian ambassador Mustafu Sami, to his office and handed him a stern statement saying the Soviet Union "will not remain indifferent" to Iran's search for "doubtful patronage" of distant powers.

It said Iran's action involved her still more in the "military plans of the United States. Such a move, it said, "inevitably" increased the danger of Iran's involvement in "military adventures," and threatens the peace in the Near and Middle East.

Moscow said it thought that Iran might have learned a lesson from the recent events in the Middle East. It reminded Iran that the Soviet Union had not remained indifferent in these past crises.

In view of Iran's attitude and reports of recent discussions between Iranian officials and U.S. Secretary of Defense McElroy, the government declared, the Soviet Union "must reappraise its policy and relations" with its southern neighbor.

Since Iran was taking steps "directed against the interests of the Soviet Union," Moscow said, a trip by Voroshilov to Iran at the invitation of the Shah would "obviously" be "inappropriate."

The Soviet government expressed hope that Iran would "seriously study" relations between the two nations and not take any steps that will result in "serious and dangerous complications."

Rebels Warn De Gaulle of All-Out War

By MICHAEL JAMES
(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Algerian provisional government issued Friday what was called "a last" appeal to France: begin negotiations for peace or face a war in which the insurgents will try to get help from any outside source.

The demand came in a statement issued here by Mohammed Yazid, minister of information of the rebel provisional government. It marked the start of the fifth year of the Algerian revolt against the French.

The statement made an "ultimate appeal" to the people of France and their government to accept "direct negotiations with the provisional government of the Algerian Republic, negotiations in a neutral country, for a settlement of the Algerian problem in its entirety."

Premier Charles de Gaulle of France on Oct. 23 invited the rebels to come to Paris to discuss a cease-fire. He told them to present themselves "under the white flag." The insurgents, who do not at all feel that they should surrender, turned down De Gaulle's offer curtly.

EAL Strike Is Scheduled For Monday

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A strike called against Trans World Airlines by the International Association of Machinists was postponed indefinitely Friday less than 12 hours before the deadline.

As TWA prepared to furlough its 19,000 employes and shut down operation of 200 planes over the world, the union announced an indefinite postponement pending "clarification of a new proposal advanced by management."

At the same time the union's headquarters in Washington announced it had set a walkout for Monday against Eastern Air Lines.

Issues in the dispute between the two airlines and the union are similar to those in a strike now in its 16th day against Capital Airlines.

Three other airlines — National, Northeast and Northwest — also are in danger of strike action under similar circumstances, although no walkout dates have been set for them.

President Charles S. Thomas of TWA said in New York the TWA strike had been postponed "pending a vote to accept or reject the company's latest proposal."

Dies in Tug Fire

PORT SUEZ, U.A.R. (UPI)—Fire destroyed a tug moored at an oil pier in the Gulf of Suez Thursday night, killing one member of the crew and injuring 18 others. Firemen took four hours to extinguish the blaze which consumed 1,800 tons of oil.

PICKRICK SAYS

When I get to City Hall a large number of things and a few people will be changed.

LESTER MADDOX

AND THOUGH

I can't say much for a politician or two at City Hall, I must say that we are blessed with several brilliant, capable, trustworthy and career-type department heads in our city government. The very friendly bundle of energy (one-man Chamber of Commerce) in charge of our Water Department (a department that means much to the present and future economic development of Atlanta) is a man who is outstanding as a public servant. He has proven himself as a leader in every undertaking. Fact is, I am giving serious consideration to having him take over things on the second floor at City Hall. (Other department heads will be discussed as space and money becomes available. Truth of the matter is that your showing up out here at the Pickrick will probably get me to your department a little sooner than otherwise.)

to the architects, builders and owners of the new motel at Peachtree and Seventh streets for adding so very much to the beauty of our community. Your accomplishments here are outstanding—not only a masterpiece of architecture but I am sure much will be added to the business life of our city.

WHICH REMINDS ME

that as far as I'm concerned, about the nicest thing that could happen in Atlanta would be for you to add a little to the business life of the Pickrick.

But Sen. Pelham Is a 'Lame Duck'

Retiring State Sen. Glenn Pelham, of Cairo, made a sensible speech before his hometown Kiwanis Club the other day in which he advanced a program to return state government to the people. His suggestions included the following:

1. Permit state senators to succeed themselves.

2. Put the state budget and finances back under control of the Legislature.

3. Stop unnecessary authority-type financing.

4. Cut the number of boards and bureaus drastically.

Much of this program has been advocated by Gov.-Nominate Ernest Vandiver before and after the recent primary. He appears both sincere and consistent and has legislative groups studying ways to bring these changes about.

The proposal to stop the rotation system in electing senators has not been endorsed by Mr. Vandiver but it would do more to strengthen the legislative branch than any proposal which has been offered. Under the present setup all senators with the exception of two are lame ducks the day they are elected.

Restoration of legislative responsibility over state funds, thus removing the club of reprisal which now hangs over the General Assembly's head, is basic to a balanced state government. Certainly the present 300-million-dollar authority debt is about all the present economic ability of the state can uphold.

Sen. Pelham also pointed out methods in which citizens can help to upgrade ethics and standards in government. He suggested (a) really know for whom you are voting; (b) keep your legislators informed as to what you believe is best; (c) object and take appropriate action to curb law violations, especially among public officials; (d) educate yourselves to politics to overcome apathy and increase effectiveness of action for the public service.

Certainly this business of good government is a two-way street. Lack of interest on the part of voters themselves is an invitation to unscrupulous politicians and others to do as they please.

Sen. Pelham's prescription is worthy of consideration by all citizens. But let it be noted that his voice will not be heard in the Senate at the coming crucial session of the General Assembly. He was a lame duck, unable to succeed himself.

California Discovers Peril of Radioactivity

Californians, reportedly a people of great sophistication and incredible immaturity, have suddenly discovered radioactive fallout.

The mayor of Los Angeles, suddenly acting as if he could taste the dregs of a nuclear bomb in his coffee, went into action demanding something be done when radioactive readings went higher than ever before. The tests, 250 miles away, definitely had been blown into Los Angeles' smog. All southern California was in a tizzy.

The AEC, which sometimes seems to us to deal also in soft soap, said there was no need to worry. Just a little radioactive stuff in the milk, the air, and on the vegetables. Nothing to worry about. Nowhere near the danger point.

But people are worrying. And the fact the United States has announced it will explode no more nuclear weapons for a year is good news. In Geneva the Russians, in a typical propaganda stunt, are saying they will agree to no ban save one which lasts forever. We've proposed a year—with options for extending it.

The pressure will be on the Russians and we likely will get some sort of uneasy, uncertain agreement not to test nuclear bombs. Any sort of start will be better than none. Mankind has the ability to destroy much of human life, leaving perhaps a few pygmies and savages in remote mountains and jungles to pick up the business of repopulating the earth.

The mayor of Los Angeles is quite right. This thing is getting to be serious when Los Angeles is threatened.

Message of Pasternak Will Outlive Tormenters

All Americans will take pride in the winning of the 1958 Nobel Prize in medicine and physiology by three U.S. researchers who have opened the door to new approaches in conquest of cancer.

The three—Dr. George Wells Beadle, Dr. E. L. Tatum, and Dr. Joshua Lederberg—have made contributions which will benefit all future generations of mankind.

It should not be overlooked, however, that this year's prize in physics goes to three Russian scientists. Their contribution, too, is great and once more proves the United States has no monopoly on scientific achievement. That they did it under the tyranny of Moscow shows the latter's concern with science.

Rejection by Boris Pasternak, Soviet winner of the prize in literature, of this world honor was another shock to civilized society. Subjected to unbelievable pressure and vilification by his Communist masters, his action under force serves notice again that in Russia there is no freedom of thought or action.

But the great message of "Doctor Zhivago" will outlive all of Pasternak's tormentors. Typical and apropos is this quotation from his book:

"The most important thing is that Christ speaks in parables taken from life, that He explains the truth in terms of everyday reality. The idea that underlies this is that communism between mortals is immortal and that the whole of life is symbolic because it is meaningful."

The Communist system brooks no rivals, mortal or immortal. That is the tragedy of Pasternak and of all who must live under it.

Frank Neely Receives Highly Deserved Honor

Presentation of the Taylor Key award, top honor by the Society For Advancement of Management, to Frank H. Neely of Atlanta will gratify his many friends in Georgia and the nation.

He was an early apostle of the principles of management advocated by Frederick W. Taylor, the society's founder. Mr. Neely used them in promoting the advancement and success of two of the major businesses in Atlanta, Fulton Bag and Rich's Inc.

Mr. Neely has contributed much to the civic and business life of this city and of his native state. We join in the congratulations which will come to him on receiving this national honor and recognition.

There Are Still Those Who Serve State Well

Rotten apples in the barrel have a way of casting reflection upon the entire contents as far as public opinion is concerned.

The same applies to the situation regarding state employes.

Under an administration in which political patronage has been practiced to the extreme, a large number of persons who did not meet Merit System requirements have been on the payroll in various capacities.

Too many of the political appointees have done little or nothing to earn their pay. Indictments have been returned in connection with shocking irregularities.

All this has tended to cast a shadow upon state employes in general, causing the innocent to suffer an unfair loss of prestige.

Georgians must not lose sight of the faithful service and valuable contributions rendered by career public servants. It is good to see the state currently is citing 95 for their work over a long period of years, in addition to having accorded such recognition to a similar group in August.

Conscientious, capable employes of the state deserve to be held in high esteem by the public, especially so for performing their duties as well as they have in the atmosphere in which they have had to work.

Railroads' Hope Rides With Split-Level Car

The split level has reached the railroads.

The Northwestern R.R. pulled out of Chicago for Milwaukee last week with the first new train that part of the country had seen in years.

The feature is a passenger car with two levels of seating and a center door entrance. The cars are heated, cooled and lighted by electricity.

Northwestern officials hope the new service will bring at least a part of the public back to the rails.

"If this doesn't do it, there's no use trying any more" says the line's president.

The new equipment offering more room per passenger, greater convenience of boarding and detraining, more comfort and convenience en route should help.

We hope it does.

Railroads, at least some of them, have far from given up in the bidding for passenger business. As the Atlantic Coast Line president, W. T. Rice, pointed out here last week, the board is still green for the fast, through service.

Surface lines find it tough going to compete with air transport on the long haul. But given the right equipment and service, they'll still carry a share.

And we'd like, too, to see the rail people study the possibilities of high-speed commuter service.

'Hey! . . . Somebody Could Get Hurt With This Thing!'

Decaturite Advises Governor To Employ 'Road-Patching Crews' of Other States

Decatur—How come Georgians (and their visitors) have to bump along on amateur patches of pavement on all highways, federal, primary and secondary alike?

Whether I'm driving my own car or riding in a Greyhound bus, I can always tell when I hit Georgia highways after making a trip into adjoining Alabama or South Carolina.

The roads in those states are patched frequently, too. But the work is done by people who are skilled and "care" what the result is.

If Gov. Griffin wants to win a few more friends amd make others look more kindly on his administration, it would pay him to send his highway patching crews over to South Carolina or Alabama to see how they repair highways. Better still, it probably would save Georgia money if the governor hired the road crews of these neighboring states to come in and do the patching for Georgia.

PTA Ex-Presidents Hail DeKalb Schools

Avondale Estates — In this day of emphasis on math and science, it is encouraging to note that the area of vocational training is not being overlooked in our DeKalb County schools. The DeKalb Board of Education, whose philosophy is based on "individualism," recognizes a public school system must provide the maximum education in the particular field best suited to the student's aptitude, capability and ambition. Long-range planning has made possible the addition of the DCT (Diversified Cooperative Training) and DE (Distributive Education) programs to supplement the established Home Economics, Commercial and Shop programs in our high schools.

Because the DeKalb Board of Education is supplying the need where the children are, our schools have a balanced program, both vocational and academic. The fact that of the some 49,500 school systems in the nation, DeKalb County schools rank in the first 75, proves the successful blending of both areas of instruction.

MRS. JOHN T. LESLIE, MRS. J. L. BRANTLEY, Immediate Past-Presidents, Avondale High PTA.

'Let Men Worship As They So Desire'

Doraville—A recent letter deplored the "approval" of social drinking on the part of the religious denomination to which I belong. To set the record straight by quoting from the report, the church in question has merely stated that " . . . There is no Scriptural command requiring total abstinence of God-fearing man, either in the Old Testament or in the New Testament."

The Scriptures warn of dire consequences, however, for the abuse or excessive use of many things God in His wisdom has placed on this earth. If any man chooses to abstain from alcoholic beverages he should certainly do so, but he has no right to require his neighbor to do likewise.

Let each man choose his own way of life in accordance with his own religious beliefs. Let him not criticize the practices of others of another faith.

We begin by deploring our neighbor's beliefs and end by bombing his institutions.

Morons and Cowards Hide Behind Anonymous Threats

Depraved persons who write anonymous "poison pen" letters, and persons who telephone false bomb threats belong in the same category. They are morons or cowards. Some may be inspired by a criminal desire to make the threat serve, vicariously, as execution of the act.

Some may vent their nihilistic spleen.

Others may act coldbloodedly to disrupt a community by obliquely terroristic tactics; the latter is standard practice within the Communist conspiracy.

Still others may by use of a hoax seek to throw unwarranted suspicion on political or ideological opponents, like the Hitlerites who started the Reichstag fire to inflame public opinion against anti-Nazis.

Yet whatever their motives, or lack of definitive motives, and whether their objective is "publicity" or terror—all are equally contemptible.

The best way for a community to react to such incidents was demonstrated by Conductor Edgar Schenkman, at the opening concert of the Richmond Symphony Orchestra's second season. The casual manner in which he informed the audience of the bomb-warning received by police and the fact that none had been found struck the right note.

The concert, by the way, was excellent and enthusiastically received.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Sympathy and slight understanding we extend to Albert Lion, president of a large embroidery factory in Baltimore. Mr. Lion knows that man can send objects toward the moon, or far under the oceans, or translate Russian novels by electronic brains. But, he says, man cannot invent a machine to thread a needle. This remains an eyestraining handchore and a costly one. We don't know what this proves, except that in needle-threading the hand is quicker than the machine. Technology can't embroider that.

Leo Aikman

Vim and Vigor In Vidalia

Column written in the style of Oscar Odd McIntyre when O. O. wrote after the manner of Samuel Pepys: Left Atlanta at noon and in Griffin stopped at the book shoppe of Willis Warnell, who, it is rumored, will be a nominee for Rotary district governor. But it was Wednesday in Griffin and business activity was as insignificant as the "Plus Tax" on a service station price sign. The Warnell shoppe was closed.

Stopped again in Perry at the Houston Home Journal where publishers Cooper Etheridge and Byron Maxwell were wrestling with galley proofs for a legal ad and the Home Journal house itself showing a new foundation for an addition expanding the facilities.

In Eastman did sit down at the coffee shoppe with Ed and Errol Methvin and their sophomore daughter, Nancy, the Methvins enjoying the relaxation that comes to the publisher when the forms are locked up and presses rolling.

The Rev. Jake Hutchison, minister at the Eastman Methodist Church, did come in for coffee, too, and there started a round of preacher jokes to which Mr. Hutchison contributed one about the Methodist preacher new to the congregation who followed each profound statement with, "Do you get me? Do you get me?"

After about six months the minister asked the janitor, "Do you think the congregation gets me?"

And the janitor said, "All I know is I heard the chairman of the board of stewards say to the finance chairman, 'If we ain't got him now, we'll get him come June." June being the time of course when the Methodists play clerical chairs.

On to Vidalia where the Chamber of Commerce was about to convene in annual supper meeting and was welcomed at the home of the Roscoe Ledfords (Frances and Lid), Round the Bend on Center Drive, they being publishers of the Vidalia Advance and owners of radio WVOP.

To the C. of C. dinner at the Elks Club where H. S. Vandiver, the secretary, did report on remarkable progress, saying the industrial payroll has risen from a handful of employes in 1947 to 963 in 1958 and the take-home from a little over $100,000 to $2,500,000.

Mr. Van told, too, of a new industry slated for the town and said publicity must await a release from the company itself. Yet he did assure Vidalia boosters that the coming concern is strictly uppercrust.

A speech did tide the crowd over between the secretary's report and the time when furniture and floor-covering vendor Brooks Brantley went out as president and auto vendor Georgia Walton came in. George said something like, "Have gavel, will travel."

Back to Round the Bend, Center Drive, and so to bed, deeply impressed by vim, vigor and vision in Vidalia.

'Litany' Is Written For Self-Satisfied

A number of weeks ago "The Christian Century" published an unusual kind of worship ritual under the title, "Litany for a Self-Satisfied Church." I want to quote portions of this "litany" which was written by Mervin C. Helfrich. Imagine a group of complacent members of a beautiful suburban church reciting perfunctorily these words:

"We rejoice in the goodly life of this congregation, for we have met perfectly every obligation developing upon us as members of the body of Christ, having paid all our bills and owing not any man. For this we give thanks and we congratulate ourselves.

"We rejoice, too, in the fellowship of this church exemplified by those who have known each other for years and who, rather than forego their rich fellowship by greeting strangers after church, always talk busily of their own lives and affairs to each other. This strong fellowship we preserve with dedicated zeal by refusing to spread it too far, and by not running after those who are merely prospects, to the neglect of those we already know. For this we congratulate ourselves.

"We take seriously our ministry to the community, for we preach no disturbing doctrines, feeling it best to assert what others believe and to do what is considered by society proper and commendable. We do not incite men to break barriers of race or clan, and we do not create trouble by opposing slums or unpleasant conditions at city halls. For this we congratulate ourselves."

Now I'm skipping a few paragraphs and quoting the last petition: "With dedicated hearts we shall without ceasing continue to preserve our propriety, and we shall ensure ourselves against all degrading influences through adherence to the sacred policies just stated. On these policies we stake our lives, religiously speaking, and our personal honor, avowing that we would rather close our church and suffer the pain of losing so dear an institution than to adopt any other way. For our devotion, then, and our matchless loyalty to our ideals, we congratulate ourselves."

As I read these ironical words there came to my mind the words typical of the general confessions and creeds: "We confess with shame our slowness to learn of Christ, our reluctance to follow Him. . . . Forgive us, we beseech Thee, the poverty of our worship, the formality and selfishness of our prayers, our inconstancy and unbelief, our neglect of fellowship and of the means of grace. . . . Forgive us wherein we have excused our own wrongdoing or evaded our responsibilities. Forgive us that we have been unwilling to overcome evil with good. . . . Have mercy upon us, O God, according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out our transgressions."

What a great difference there is between the litany of the self-satisfied and that of the humble and contrite worshiper!

When we contrast ourselves and our churches with the will of God for us, then we hardly have room for self-satisfaction and congratulations.

Roscoe Drummond

Richard M. Nixon Stirs Controversy

SEATTLE—He is not running for office. He is not campaigning for himself. He is doing more politicking than any other candidate in the nation. Wherever I have traveled across the country I have found him to be the most discussed, most questioned, most criticized, most praised and the most simultaneously liked and disliked political personality in the United States.

What's his line?

His line is presidential politics and he is, as you have guessed, Richard M. Nixon, the Republican political leader who, whatever one thinks about him, is never ignored.

Nobody, simply nobody, seems indifferent to Vice President Nixon.

I have talked with a lot of politicians of both parties in numerous states on this trip and, by virtue of some extracurricular lecturing, have been the target of a barrage of questions from a variety of audiences on politics and personalities. The questions may be friendly, hostile or just plain curious, but they always get around to Nixon; such questions as these:

Is he sincere? Has he changed? Since he is going all-out to elect a Republican Congress, will he be seriously hurt politically if his campaign falls far short of his goal? If Nelson Rockefeller wins the governorship of New York and thereby emerges as a national figure in the Republican party, will he offer a formidable challenge to Nixon's nomination in 1960?

Opinions will differ on these questions.

My own judgment is:

That Nixon has an alert and informed grasp of the kind of world we are living with and of the main problems the United States is up against.

That he is widely committed to a set of approaches for dealing with these problems, spanning the whole range of the cold war and the consequences at home, which seems vigorous and broad-visioned and not always politically popular.

That Nixon is a wiser and maturer man than he was when he ran for Congress and later for the Senate and even in the 1954 congressional campaign.

As to the possibility that Nelson Rockefeller, if he defeats Gov. Harriman, can overtake the vice president and dash by him in the 1960 convention, this does not seem to me to be an event that is at all in the making.

James Reston

This Is Funny Era Of Political Grins

WASHINGTON—The election of 1958 is a reminder that there are fashions in politics like everything else. Take campaign photographs. In the old days when the country needed a good five-cent cigar, your candidate stuck his hand in his vest and tried to look serious, like a statesman. But not today.

This is the era of the grinning candidate. He may have lost the women's vote and the labor vote; his own party workers may think he's a cipher with the rim removed and wish secretly for his disappearance; he may, in short, be facing inevitable, imminent, humiliating and well-justified defeat, but there he will be on the front page of your morning paper grinning his way to oblivion.

This determined cheerfulness is particularly evident in this campaign. It is not only Nelson Rockefeller, who presumably has something to smile about, but Sen. William F. Knowland of California, and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of the same state, who are in a state of perpetual merriment. And of course President Eisenhower, who wishes it were all over, and Vice President Nixon, who is bone-tired, laugh so much it makes you want to cry.

Some politicians have made a science of having their picture taken. Gov. Knight, for example, always has his picture taken standing on the right of the group, so that when it appears in the paper, the caption will start with him: "Left to right, Gov. Knight, etc." Being a comparatively small man, he has also mastered the art of "the tip-toe pose," which makes him look taller. This, too, is a new fashion.

Some things, of course, have gone out of fashion. Baby-kissing, for example. This is odd, too, for there are more kissable babies in America today than ever in history, yet a search of the files has turned up only one baby-kissing campaign picture, and in this case, the object of the kiss was a queen-size "baby" of spectacular proportions.

That lovely political fashion of the past, the campaign train, is now gone with the hoop skirt and the whistle-stop has been replaced by the "airport address." This latter lacks the color of the downtown railroad yard, being far off on the edge of town, but it has one unexpected advantage. It usually takes place when 16 other planes are landing or taking off, sparing the audience from understanding precisely what was said.

Two other innovations of the modern campaign are the political comedian, who serves as master of ceremonies at "rallies," and the political technician, who coaches the candidate, adjusts the microphone and directs the cheer-leading before the great man appears.

Bob Hope helped attract the faithful to President Eisenhower's Los Angeles rally and, of course, Robert Montgomery is the official microphone-adjuster for most presidential appearances.

Instead of the old-fashioned emphasis on what a candidate thinks or what he says, the emphasis now seems to be on how he looks, especially on television, and what kind of personality he has.

If you like these new fashions, fine, and if you don't, SMILE!

U.S. May Referee Steel Strike Here

Federal mediation loomed as a possibility here Friday in a strike that earlier in the day shut down Atlantic Steel Co. and idled some 1,400 steelworkers.

Meanwhile, Central of Georgia Railroad's Savannah headquarters advised The Constitution that "all trains are leaving on schedule" following court action by the railroad to stop a strike of engineers and firemen. At issue was an alleged company violation of the National Labor Relations Act.

A temporary restraining order halting the rail strike wsa signed late Thursday by Federal Judge Frank M. Scarlett in Brunswick. The strike began at 12:31 a.m. Thursday and halted all trains of the three-state system after mediation attempts failed, rail officials said.

William S. Pierce, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said his office has been "in contact and conversation" with the principals in the steel strike and "we hope to set up a meeting."

The strike began at 7 a.m. Friday after the breakdown late Thursday of negotiations between the company and Local 2401, United Steelworkers of America. Picketing was reported under way at the plant.

The principal issue in the dispute involves seniority rights, according to a steel company spokesman and Charles C. Mathias, a representative of the steelworker union's international staff.

The steel company spokesman said the work contract involved does not give the steelworkers the right to choose their own work assignments and other benefits on the basis of seniority with the firm.

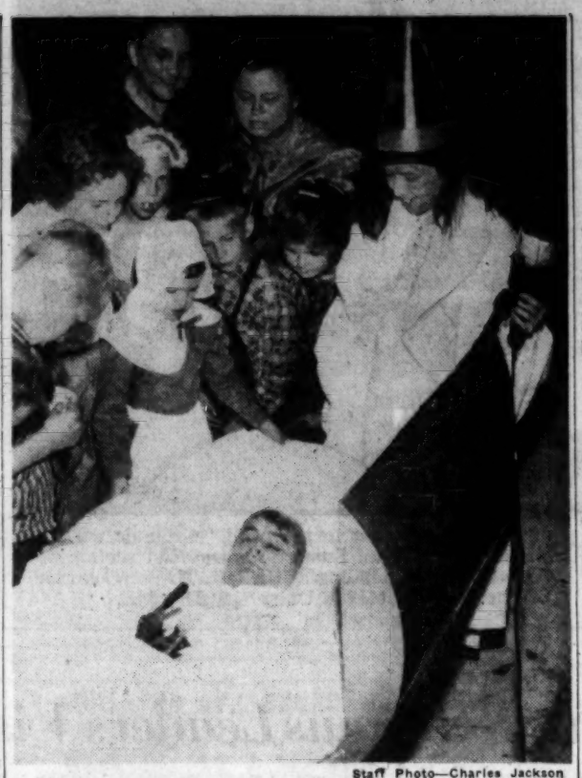

The union, Mathias said, claims the workers do have the right to so choose, on the basis of precedent and the "spirit and intent" of the contract, the wording of same notwithstanding.

New Building Here Rocketing to Record

Value of construction authorized in Atlanta this year may exceed $100 million, and surely will top the 1954 record of $87,541,690, Building Inspector William R. Wofford said Friday.

Building permits issued through Oct. 31 totaled $81,019,910, just $6,521,780 short of the 1954 record.

Wofford said about $30 million more in new construction is being planned and permits for several large projects will be issued before year's end.

GEORGIA NEWS ROUNDUP

Rothschild's Lawyer Charges Double-Cross

A Buford attorney Friday charged bad faith on the part of South Carolina authorities in not releasing Rocky Rothschild to serve a murder sentence in Georgia and return to society.

"Somebody somewhere — not anybody in Georgia but somebody in South Carolina—promised him something," said Ray Merritt, court-appointed attorney for the former Cairo, Ill., policeman. "They made him believe he was going to be pardoned in South Carolina so he could start serving his time in Georgia."

Merritt added that he was not prepared at present to say who made the promise but that it had something to do with Rothschild's July 4 confession at Columbia, S.C., of the robbery-killing of merchant Charlie Drake of Jefferson, Ga.

Rothschild received a life term for the July 19, 1956, Drake murder. The 34-year-old ex-cop and college athlete would be eligible for parole consideration after serving 15 years.

South Carolina authorities took Rothschild to Jefferson in August for his murder trial. The State's Pardon Board, however, only a few days ago refused to free him from a five-year sentence for a Greer, S.C., safecracking conspiracy so he can begin his Georgia term.

ATLANTA NEWS

Gunmen Grab $350 In 2 Night Holdups

Two bandits without Halloween masks staged separate robberies and fled with a total of $350 late Friday while most of the city was occupied with "tricking and treating" pint-sized hobgoblins who were satisfied with cookies and candy.

Police said a middle-aged white man, wearing gold-rimmed glasses and a green cap, entered the Crest Finance Co., 90 Plaza Way, S.W., and thrust a pistol into the face of an employe, Miss Catherine Shaw.

"Give me your money—all of it," the bandit snarled.

Sgt. Clinton Chafin and Detective N. W. Flanagan said the gunman fled with $200 after ordering Miss Shaw and another employe, Charles Eberstein, into a back room.

The second holdup occurred at a market at 733 North Ave., N.W., where a Negro youth clad in a long gabardine overcoat trained a pistol on the manager, Sydney Smallwood, and fled with $150, police said.

Fallout Count Jumps

Up to 10 times the normal amount of radioactive fallout has been silently drifting down on Atlanta during the past three weeks.

But it's nothing to be alarmed about, said Richard Fetz, senior industrial hygienist for the State Health Department. He said the human body can tolerate 1,000 times the normal amount without noticeable harmful effects.

3 Police Cleared

Clayton County justice of the Peace G. P. McMullin Friday dismissed six warrants charging Forest Park Assistant Police Chief Jack Grant and Patrolmen Ed Fowler and Clarence H. Lanier with falsely imprisoning and beating Arthur W. Wilkerson of Forest Park.

Wilkerson had been found innocent Oct. 6 in Forest Park recorder's court of charges of drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest.

2 Indicted in Theft

The Fulton Grand Jury Friday indicted a woman and an Atlanta motel executive on charges of stealing guest reservation records valued at $10,000 from a plush downtown Atlanta motel.

Miss Ann Campbell, a former employe of the Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc., and Jay Sarno, an executive of the Atlanta Cabana Motor Hotel, were charged with taking 7,200 carbon copies of guest reservation confirmation records and 41 daily summary sheets listing reservation for the Heart of Atlanta Motel.

Chiefs Elect Jenkins

Atlanta Police Chief Herbert Jenkins Friday was elected a vice president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police at the conclusion of the group's 65th annual convention at Miami.

Jenkins' election as sixth vice president puts him in a line of automatic succession which would elevate him to the presidency of 1964.

Raging Blaze Hits Talbotton

Constitution State News Service

TALBOTTON—A furious fire, visible for miles, swept a warehouse near downtown Talbotton Friday and threatened a nearby textile plant before firemen brought the flames under control.

Firemen from Talbotton and Manchester fought the blaze that swept the Persons Warehouse Co. and seed treating plant owned by Talbotton Mayor Henry Persons.

The fire broke out in the feed and fertilizer warehouse shortly after 10:30 p.m., showering sparks over a wide area of the town. No one was injured. The cause of the fire was undetermined.

No. 42: Know Your County

Dawson in North Georgia Home of Tumbling Water

Dawson County, in central north Georgia, was created from Gilmer and Lumpkin counties in 1857, ranking 118th in creation. The county and its county seat, Dawsonville, were named for Judge William C. Dawson, compiler of the laws of Georgia who served in both houses of the General Assembly and Congress before the Civil War.

Amicalola (Cherokee for "tumbling waters") Falls State Park is in Dawson County on Ga. 52. The falls, the highest in the state, consist of seven beautiful cataracts. They are 13 miles northwest of Dawsonville. Heard Shoals, six miles west of Dawsonville on Ga. 43, consists of several small cataracts that look like snow when viewed from a distance.

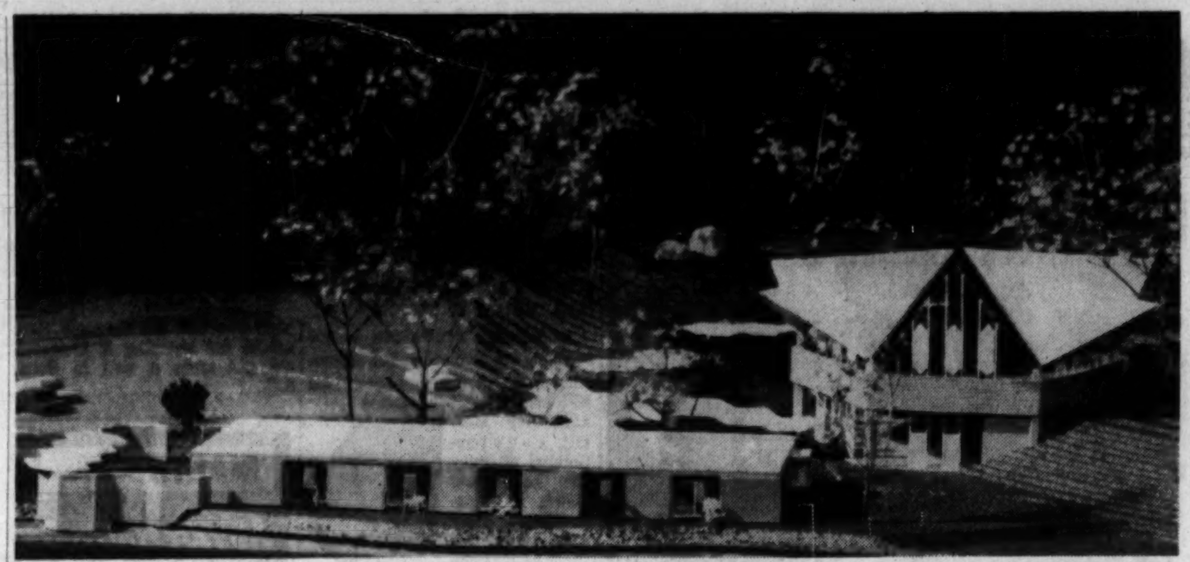

A finger of Lake Lanier extends into the eastern part of the county and about 5,000 acres of the Chattahoochee National Forest are in the north portion. The Etowah River flows through the county.

Dawson County covers 213 square miles, ranking 136th in size. The county has a population of 3,300 (1957 estimate) and ranked 155th in population in the 1950 census. Dawsonville had a population of 318 (1950 census).

There were 605 farms in the county in 1954. About 71 per cent of the acreage was in woodlands and only 6 per cent in harvested crops. Poultry and poultry products brought in almost 93 per cent of the farm income. Dawson ranked 13th in broiler production.

Highways running through the county are U.S. 19, and Ga. 52, 136, 183, 136, 53, 9, 9E and 226.

Tomorrow: Decatur County.

STAR OF DAVID—The sanctuary of the proposed $340,000 Beth El Synagogue will be built in the shape of the Star of David. Architect Kenneth Johnson uses large expanses of glass to give the feeling of "worshipping out in the open." Grounds will be broken at 2:30 p.m. Sunday for the first section of the educational building at the left. The new church will be located at 1260 University Dr., NE.

Billy Graham

Churches Go Own Ways But All Are One in Spirit

QUESTION: I have so often wondered if all the different denominations are pleasing to God. When Jesus left this world didn't He command that His apostles carry on His work? In the 17th chapter of John He prayed that the disciple might be one? Has this prayer of Jesus been in vain? —L.L.

ANSWER: A book could be written on your question, but I will try to clarify the matter in a few words. It is not surprising that there are so many different branches of the Christian church. Even in the first century, the church became divided over trite differences.

Paul and Barnabas were loyal friends and faithful colaborers in Christ. But they had a dispute because Barnabas insisted on taking Mark with them. The Bible says: "The contention was so sharp, that they departed asunder one from the other." This has been going on throughout the centuries. Perhaps it is God's way of keeping the stream of Christianity from becoming polluted and stagnated.

Sometime ago, one of the most perceptive leaders of Latin America said to me: "I have been reading that there is a movement on foot in America to bring all Protestant churches into one great church." He went on to say, "I think there is something wholesome in people worshipping God according to the dictates of their own conscience. I hope the time will never come when everyone will be "rubber-stamped" into one ecclesiastical body."

We must remember that there is a difference between unity and union. I have found a great unity and spirit of Christian cooperation among the churches of the world. They believe, essentially, the same. Though they are not united in name, most of them are unified in spirit. We have seen as many as 50 different denominations working side by side for the Glory of God.

No, I don't think Christ's prayer for unity was prayed in vain.

Williams' Re-Indictment Adds Names of 2 Firms

The names of two more liquor firms were added Friday to the list of those which had allegedly contributed money which State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams is charged with converting to his own use.

The firms were added by reindictment of Williams on larceny after trust charges on which he is scheduled to stand trial Monday in Fulton Superior Court.

Only change in the charges already made against Williams by the Fulton County Grand Jury was addition of the names of National Distributing Co., Inc., and General Distributing Co., Inc., as contributors.

Otherwise the new Indictment, as did one returned earlier against Williams, charged that the revenue commissioner converted to his own use $46,928.59 of $162,902 of funds entrusted to him by liquor dealers to combat moonshiners.

Williams' attorney, William Hall, meanwhile Friday sought to have the first indictment quashed on grounds that its single count actually "charges numerous separate and distinct offenses."

Contending that the indictment is "duplicitous," demurrers filed on behalf of Williams said it appears from the allegations of the indictment that "said money was received by this defendant under a separate and distinct entrustment by each owner thereof. . . ."

It added that "a fraudulent conversion of the money of each owner constituted a separate and distinct transaction and offense."

The indictment lists approximately 200 liquor firms and dealers who allegedly entrusted Williams with a total of $162,902 to be applied for their benefit.

The demurrer also attacks the indictment on grounds that it fails to say "for what purpose and in what manner this defendant was authorized and empowered to use, apply and expend such money."

Williams' counsel contends in the demurrer that the indictment fails to set out if the money was entrusted "at one time and place by all the alleged owners acting in concert pursuant to one entrustment, or whether said money was entrusted to defendant at different times and places. . . ."

The indictment, the demurrer and motion alleges, does not charge Williams "with any offense against the penal laws" of Georgia and its averments "are too obscure and indefinite and are confusing and ambiguous."

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Foreign Minister Subandrio left on Friday by plane for Seattle, Wash. on the first leg of a tour that will include the United States, Britain and Italy. Information Minister Sudibyo said Subandrio would not discuss the controvery over Dutch - held New Guinea in scheduled talks with officials during his tour.

Willing To Probe NAACP In Savannah, Solicitor Says

SAVANNAH (AP)—Andrew J. Ryan Jr., solicitor general of the Eastern Judicial Circuit (Chatham County), said Friday he was willing to conduct an investigation of charges that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People instigated a lawsuit in Savannah to mix the races.

But he said published reports Friday of plans for Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook to send him evidence of the NAACP's alleged illegal attempt to integrate Fred Wessels homes seemed rather tardy.

He said that shortly after the Fred Wessels case was tried in court here several years ago he had a call from Shelby Myrick Sr., legal counsel for the Savannah Housing Authority.

Ryan said Myrick made the charge to him that the NAACP had instituted the lawsuit and thus violated the state law. Ryan said he told Myrick that if the latter would furnish the solicitor with witnesses and evidence, a Chatham County grand jury investigation would be made.

Ryan said he heard no more from Myrick in response but shortly afterwards there was a long distance telephone call from Atty. Gen. Cook in Atlanta. Ryan said Cook reported Myrick had made a similar charge to Cook about the NAACP. The solicitor said Cook told Ryan the governor wanted the solicitor to come to Atlanta and discuss the charge. Ryan said he thereupon went to Atlanta for this purpose and spent two days there vainly trying to see the governor.

Ryan said he heard no more about the subject after that.

Ryan's comment in conclusion on the barratry charges was that so far he knew nothing about the latest developments but what was published in the newspapers but, he added:

"If Mr. Cook or anyone else now has evidence and/or testimony other than opinion and heresay I'll be very glad to make an investigation and present the matter to the grand jury."

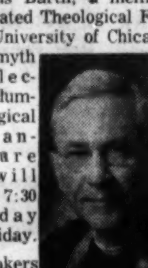

IN ATLANTA CHURCHES

Scottish Pastor Among Religious Leaders Visiting Here

By KAY McLEOD

Several outstanding religious leaders will be in Atlanta next week to lead special services in the city's churches.

Dr. Markus Barth, a member of the Federated Theological Faculty of the University of Chicago, will be the Smyth Foundation lecturer at Columbia Theological Seminary's annual lecture week. He will speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Dr. McGeachy

Other speakers at Columbia seminary during the week will include Dr. Robert F. Boyd, Richmond, Va., who will speak at 9:30 a.m. daily and Dr. Daniel Patrick McGeachy, Clearwater, Fla., who will speak at 11 a.m. daily. All services will be held in the Columbia Presbyterian Church.

GUEST PREACHER

Dr. McGeachy Jr. will also be the guest minister at Morningside Presbyterian Church's third annual fall evangelism series.

He will speak at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday and at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Dr. J. Sidlow of Edinburgh, Scotland, will speak at 7:45 p.m. Sunday through Nov. 14 at Colonial Hills Baptist Church.

Coronation Week

Upsets along the way may alter the picture, but they're advertising the colossal battle between LSU and Ole Miss in Baton Rouge Saturday night as the Southeastern Conference Coronation party.

These ancient enemies always play for keeps, and the victor in this winner-take-all affair will emerge as an odds-on favorite for the crown and a bowl bid.

Outlar

A tie between the unbeaten giants, plus an Auburn victory over Florida, would project the Plainsmen into championship picture. But more about those games later on. Though the SEC floodlights are focused on Baton Rouge and Gainesville, there is more interest in our immediate area over the outcome of traditional tussles in Durham and Tuscaloosa.

Georgia Tech climbs into the ring with Duke in the 26th chapter of one of the South's most interesting rivalries. Nothing is at stake but the outcome; yet it's a vital contest for the Engineers.

For the second week in a row, they're at the crossroads. After bruising encounters with Tennessee and Auburn, Tech was physically flat last week and absorbed a 20-0 licking from SMU.

A triumph over the burly Blue Devils would provide Tech with a 4-2-1 record and set the stage for a strong stretch run.

Though the Engineers still aren't at peak strength, they're in much better shape for this match than they were a week ago. Tech will be gunning for its fourth straight victory over Duke. The Blue Devils haven't crossed the Tech goal in a dozen quarters.

—After Three Shutouts, a Duke Victory

Bobby Dodd's teams have enjoyed 8-4-1 success against Duke, but the Blue Devils own a two-game edge in the over-all series. Tech belted the Blue Devils out of the unbeaten ranks last year in a major upset at Grant Field.

This year's game is classed a toss-up. This is a typical Duke team, boasting a bulky line and fine running backs. It's tough to figure the current edition of Engineers. After losing to Kentucky, Tech rebounded with three victories and a tie against Auburn in a successful home stand. On foreign soil last week, Tech rendered a so-so performance, particularly in the second half. The Engineers are unbeaten at home, still shopping for their first victory over the road.

Duke also presents puzzling credentials. The Blue Devils play 'em close to the vest regardless of the opposition. None of the six contests (3-3) have been decided by more than eight points. Duke beat Illinois, lost to Notre Dame by only two points in South Bend; yet Virginia and South Carolina romped off with victories.

Tech usually reserves one of its finer performances for Duke. But I have a hunch that the Blue Devils are ready this time. Duke is the pick by a 7-0 margin.

Georgia's Bulldogs will be guests of Paul Bryant and Alabama at the Bear's first homecoming party. The football Moses, who already has the Tide at a higher ebb in the short span of a half season, personally nominated the Bulldogs for his coming-out party. This game marks Bryant's debut before the home folks in an SEC contest.

No doubt, the Bear noticed that Georgia was the only conference foe Alabama whipped last year. At any rate, he switched the game from Birmingham to the Capstone at a cost of a few thousand bucks.

Coach Wallace Butts, of course, has reminded the Bulldogs that this party wasn't arranged in their honor. And the Tide may discover that this is a different breed of Bulldogs. He won't be surprised, of course, for Alabama has scouted Georgia in every game this year. In fact, Red Drew even attended Georgia's G-Day game, so it's obvious that Bryant has been drawing a bead on the Bulldogs.

—Georgia, Florida, LSU Picked To Win

This contest shapes up as a tooth-rattling, hard-nosed affair. Fumbles and penalties may decide the outcome.

Georgia is armed with its finest offense in recent years. Alabama is exceptionally tough on defense, a trademark of all Bryant teams. With the exception of Kentucky, Georgia hasn't been able to contain any foe. Alabama hasn't promoted more than one TD against any foe except Furman.

The Tide rides into this one with a 2-2-1 chart; Georgia reads 2-3. Alabama shocked one and all by spoiling Miss. State's homecoming show, 9-7, last week. Georgia inundated Kentucky, 28-0, on the heels of an impressive 28-13 decision over FSU. The Bulldogs have scored two or more touchdowns in their last four outings. Only Kentucky failed to cash two or more scoring chips against Georgia.

Alabama boasts the nation's top pass defense, highest team punting average. Georgia's Bobby Walden is the nation's leading booter, so kicking figures prominently. I believe Georgia can score twice and halt the Tide by a score of 15-10.

In the big one on the Bayou, Ole Miss is cast as an underdog for the first time since the Tennessee game in 1956. Johnny Vaught's Rebs haven't defeated a top drawer outfit, but no one has defeated them. LSU is the AP's version of the No. 1 team, and I look for Billy Cannon and the Tigers to retain their rating. Here's a 21-7 ballot for the Bengals.

The home team has won the Auburn-Florida argument ever since Ralph Jordan came back to the Plain. They're playing in Gainesville Saturday. Florida's line is equipped to compete with Auburn's blocks of granite. Neither teams presents an exciting offense. Florida was the last team to beat Auburn, 19 games ago. I look for the Gators to scissor this string by a 7-0 margin.

THE OTHERS: Miss. State over Kentucky, North Carolina over Tennessee, Richmond over Citadel, Clemson over Wake Forest, FSU over Tampa, South Carolina over Maryland, VPI over N.C. State, Virginia over VMI.

Army over Colgate, Boston College over COP, Notre Dame over Navy, William and Mary over Boston U., Princeton over Brown, Cornell over Columbia, Dartmouth over Yale, Harvard over Penn, Pittsburgh over Syracuse.

Purdue over Illinois, Minnesota over Indiana, Iowa over Michigan, Wisconsin over Michigan State, Ohio State over Northwestern, Missouri over Nebraska, Colorado over Oklahoma, Marquette over Detroit, Kansas State over Kansas, Oklahoma State over Air Force Academy.

Texas A&M over Arkansas, TCU over Baylor, SMU over Texas, Utah State over Brigham Young, Utah over Wyoming, California over Oregon State, Idaho over San Jose State, Oregon over Washington, Stanford over Southern Cal and Washington State over UCLA.

Georgia ½ Point Choice To Spoil Bama Homecoming

Game Boasts Best Punters

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Editor

TUSCALOOSA — Georgia and Alabama, two middle-class football families eager to rejoin the elite, will butt heads Saturday in an SEC scuffle expected to lure 32,000 Homecoming fans into Denny Stadium.

Once glamorous bowl debutantes, the Bulldogs and Tiders have experienced rough sledding in recent years. Now, however, both teams are making progress up the comeback trail.

Records to Date

GEORGIA		ALABAMA
8 Texas	13	3 LSU	13
14 Vandy	21	0 Vandy	8
14 South Carolina	24	29 Furman	6
28 Florida State	13	7 Tennessee	14
28 Kentucky	0	9 Miss. State	7

Bear Bryant, the grizzly man who came home to win, will be making his SEC debut before the home folks in this one. Last week the Tiders upset Miss. State, 9-7, to promote the loudest yells in at least five years, and the Bear hopes the old grads will be able to cheer again Saturday.

Alabama hauls a 2-2-1 record into the arena, and a triumph over Georgia would assure the Tide of its finest campaign in four.

Wallace Butts is bringing a hungry band of Bulldogs to town. After an awkward start, Georgia regained its momentum and put the pads to Florida State and Kentucky in an impressive manner. The Bulldogs won a 2-3 chart, and a verdict over Alabama would equal their victory output in each of the past seasons.

Unable to reach a decision on the favorite, oddsmakers finally installed the Bulldogs as a half-point choice.

The spectators appear to be in for an enchanting afternoon. Georgia is a go-for-broke offensive-minded outfit, and the Tide specializes in defense. Georgia has scored twice or more on four foes; the Tide has limited three opponents to a TD or less.

Pass defense and punting are prime weapons in Bryant's defensive arsenal, and statistic-wise the Tide has the best in the land. Alabama has yielded only 45 yards per outing through the air, but hasn't been overly stingy on the ground.

Alabama's team kicking average is 42.1, tops on the NCAA network, but Georgia's Bobby Walden is better. The Big Toe from Cairo has boomed 17 for an amazing average of 47.4.

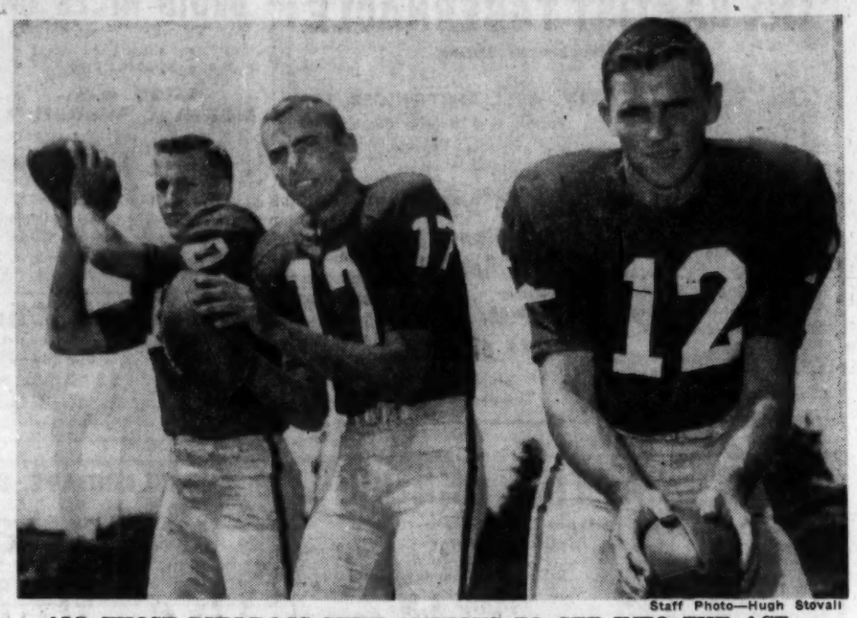

Only punter in the league close to Walden will be close at hand Saturday. The Tide's Gary O'Steen, who quick kicked State into a state of shock, has toed 18 for a 43.5 mark, second in the SEC, third nationally.

Several scouts who have seen both teams agree on the toss-up odds. They give the Tide a slight edge in the line; Georgia an advantage in the backfield. Quarterback Bobby Jackson, trackman Marlin Dyess and O'Steen are sure to do lots of legwork for Bama.

Fullback Theron Sapp, fifth ranking gainer in the SEC with an average of five yards per carry; fleet Fred Brown and the quarterback trio of Charley Britt, Francis Tarkenton and Tommy Lewis head up the Bulldog offense.

None of the Bulldogs are more eager to succeed in this one than Fred Brown, son and nephew of former Tide stickouts. Fred

Wave Guns Mow Down Texas Tech

Sheriff Petitbon Sparkles, 27-0

BY MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La.—As General Custer would say, Texas Tech's Red Raiders will have that ambushed feeling Saturday morning.

A green-jersied posse from Tulane, spurred on by "Sheriff" Richard Petitbon, corralled the varmints short of the goal line here Friday night and shot 'em down in cold points, 27-0.

Petitbon, who totes a 45-caliber right arm, put two touchdown bullets through the Raiders' hearts before they really ever had a chance to raid.

Then to the supreme delight of some 20,000 shivering witnesses who were almost lost in mammoth Sugar Bowl Stadium, Percy Colon, a hard-riding halfback, ran for the clinching six pointers.

Despite 135 yards stepped off in various penalties — including what might have been a new league backfield in motion record—Texas Tech's touchdown underdogs were never in the match.

After a scoreless first quarter, Petitbon and associates struck for 14 points in one minute less time than in it requires to take a five-minute break.

Trapped trying to pitch from the enemy 44, Petitbon whipped for 12 yards. Eddie Dunn contributed four, and Boo Mason added five to the 23.

Then Petitbon faded, stumbled, recovered and delivered a perfect strike to reserve end Pete Abadie who had outlegged the last defender. With 13:10 remaining in the opening half, Howard Kisner kicked the first

Jackets Seek First Road Victory In 'Tossup' Clash with Blue Devils

Nix Guards Duke's Sime

By BERT PRATHER

Bobby Dodd shepherded his Georgia Tech gridiron troops into the Tar Heel country Friday for their 26th engagement with Duke's Blue Devils Saturday afternoon in Duke Stadium. And latest word from the oddsmakers had the battle a standoff.

Records to Date

GEORGIA TECH		DUKE
0 Kentucky	13	0 S. Carolina 8

21 Tennessee	7	12 Baylor 7
7 Auburn	7	7 Notre Dame 9
0 S.M.U.	20	20 N.C. State 13

Mild and cloudy weather was promised for the 2 p.m. kickoff, but the expected turnout for this traditional game wasn't so encouraging. Latest estimate was between 30 and 35,000, which is far shy of the capacity (57,500).

Duke leads in the series 13-11-1, however, Dodd-coached Jacket teams lead 8-4-1.

The Engineers move into Durham hoping to duplicate last year's 13-0 triumph and get back on the win side of the ledger after being upended, 20-0, last Saturday by Southern Methodist at Dallas. The Jackets also lost their other road games to Kentucky, so this one will be in the nature of a jinx breaker. At home they've won from FSU, Tulane, Tennessee and tied Auburn's powerful War Eagles in a real shocker.

Coach Bill Murray's Blue Devils have been rather erratic, losing to South Carolina, Virginia and Notre Dame (the latter a thriller), and winning from Illinois, Baylor and North Carolina State (the latter a squeaker).

Though the Dukes will carry a 50-50 record into the ball game, there are many among their followers who believe they'll make a supreme effort to clip the Jackets.

Many of these same Blue Devils such as quarterback Bob Broadhead, halfbacks Wray Carlton and George Dutrow, guard Mike McGee, ends Bert Lattimore and Dug Padgett are still smarting from that unexpected licking in Atlanta last fall. The Dukes were heavily favored in that one, yet were outplayed completely throughout the game. Revenge should be very much on their minds when they line up for the kickoff Saturday.

Tech, on the other hand, is just as anxious to take this one and forget about last week's visit to the Cotton Bowl.

For one thing the Jackets won't be subject to the aerial bombardment that SMU dealt out last week. The Blue Devils, a ponderous team, moves by ground 75 per cent of the time.

However, their two best half-

Baby Jackets Hard-Pressed To Whip Clemson Frosh, 14-6

Thompson Romps 90

By PAUL ATKINSON

Georgia Tech and Clemson freshmen wrote strikingly-similar chapters in their football book Friday night, but as is often the custom, Tech had more salient points, 14-6.

An appreciative crowd of 3,500 at Grant Field saw Charlie Tate's Baby Jackets take a 7-0 lead at the half and hold an 11-2 bulge in first downs and 182-22 net offense advantage. But Goat McMillan's Little Tigers reversed the charts, struck for a touchdown and forced Tech to wheel out fleet Kenny Thompson for a clinching 90-yard kickoff touchdown return.

"We just made too many mistakes," said Tate, whose Baby Jackets went 2-0 on the season. "Two touchdowns called back by penalty hurt us a lot."

Northsider Stan Gann was the victim of those rules infractions. A one-yard TD sneak was nullified and a 37-yard TD pass to ex-Tiger colleague John Ferguson was also wiped away.

"Then again," Tate continued, "we had our good moments . . . Thompson's TD run, a fine drive led by quarterback Bobby MacKenzie."

MacKenzie prodded the Jackets 30 yards for the first half touchdown. Safetyman Johnny Tomlinson returned a punt 13 yards to the Clemson 30. Enter MacKenzie, who hit huge Jim Powell for six yards and Ferguson for the key 18-yarder at the two. Larry Lafkowitz hit for one, and MacKenzie sneaked in for the TD, with Jordan's Mickey Carmack kicking the first of two conversions.

It was here that Tech's offense became dormant, and Clemson's came alive because of former Roosevelt of Atlanta quarterback Truman Burton and ex-Gordon Military end Gary Barnes. They got the Tigers off on a 14-maneuver, 93-yard drive—Burton zeroing in on Barnes for passes of 8, 12 and 34 yards, the last for the touchdown.

Clemson tried the new-fangled two-point rule—first time in five Grant Field games—and failed. Halfback Jim Wilson was struck down at the one by tackle Jon Shurbet and linebacker Raymond Holt, and Tech led 7-6 at 7:02 of the fourth quarter.

At 7:13, Thompson had changed that to 14-6 on his 90-yard journey. Carmack threw a key block, and the little Texan broke clear at the Tech 30-yard line.

Tech mustered only 45 yards the second half, was out-distanced by Clemson, 189-45. But

BIG DAY IN THE SEC

Whole Lotta Knockin' at Baton Rouge, Gainesville

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Points and Indian-head pennies should be equally plentiful at Baton Rouge Saturday night when Louisiana State and Mississippi collide in THE banner battle.

And the electric lights on the Florida scoreboard at Gainesville aren't expected to do much blinking when Auburn comes calling.

It's Southeastern Conference showdown time, and don't blame Bob Woodruff's Gators for wondering what they're doing in such fast company.

Mississippi, Auburn and LSU, in that order, are the nation's stingiest football citizens when it comes to donating digits to the opponents' scorecard.

BILLY CANNON
Fires at Johnny Rebs

Johnny Vaught's rambunctious Rebels have yielded 26 points in 6 games for a 4.3 average; Ralph Jordan's tenacious Tigers have given up 22 points in 5 games for a 4.4 average and Paul Dietzel's bodacious Bengals are America's third best with a yield of 29 points in 6 games for a 4.8 standard.

And adding even more crimson to Gator cheeks is the undefeated status of the other three teams, with only Georgia Tech's tie with Auburn marring otherwise perfect records.

Uncle Sam's far-reaching eyes will be focused on Baton Rouge. Not since the 1956 Georgia Tech-Tennessee head-butting has an SEC encounter attracted such national interest.

CLEVE WESTER
A Gator in the Path

It's the game of the day, and possibly the year. The Bengals will enter the 67,000 packed arena with No. 1 in the nation credentials. And the Rebs, who haven't lost to LSU since 1950, are ranked No. 6.

Most probable prizes awaiting the winner are (1) nation's No. 1 rating, (2) Sugar Bowl bid, (3) SEC championship and (4) an undefeated season.

But while press agents are pounding out possibilities, Missis-

LSU-Ole Miss Tops on Day of Big Bowl Grab

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP) — Prospective bowlers have their day Saturday—Rose Bowlers, Sugar Bowlers, Cotton, Orange and Gator Bowlers to be exact.

This could be a crucial day for those teams who want to play football New Year's Day. The way various conference races shape up, the weekend's play will give a pretty solid line on whom you will watch Jan. 1, 1959.

There is also a smorgasboard of intersectional and some interesting prestige games for others of the top 20 teams selected for the Associated Press this week by sportswriters and broadcasters.

The big game—at 9, EST—is at Baton Rouge, La., where top-ranked and unbeaten Louisiana State meets unbeaten and sixth-ranked Mississippi. The winner will become the odds-on choice for the Southeastern Conference title and the host spot in the Sugar Bowl.

LSU has a 6-0 season record, 3-0 in the SEC, while Ole Miss has the same season mark and is 2-0 in conference play. Both have to play Mississippi State, a possible spoiler.

In the Big Ten, Iowa (4-0-1) has been casting a big eye toward the Rose Bowl. If the second-ranked Hawks can take Michigan (2-2-1), their path is pretty smooth. They still have a Nov. 15 date with Ohio State, ineligible this year as the current champion.

Ohio State (No. 5) plays Northwestern (No. 11), which must win to stay alive after losing to Iowa last week.

At Boulder, Colo., unbeaten Colorado (5-0) meets once-beaten Oklahoma (No. 7) in the battle for the Big Eight title and a trip to the Orange Bowl.

The Sooners are eligible to return to the Orange Bowl this year and Colorado (No. 9) also would like to make the trip as the Big Eight champ. Although the Sooners played in Miami last January they are free to go again this year if they are the champs.

Texas Christian (No. 18) gets a chance to tie idle Rice (No. 14) for the Southwest Conference lead if it can get by Baylor. The two have a date Nov. 22 but until then the home spot in the Cotton Bowl is up for grabs.

A host of top Eastern independents are eyeing bowl bids since the Atlantic Coast Conference severed its tie with the Orange Bowl.

Pitt (No. 12) plays Syracuse (4-1) with the winner getting an inside track on bids to the Cotton, Orange or Sugar bowls, plus a shot at the Gator Bowl. Pitt (4-1-1) tied Army last week and lost to Michigan State.

The Cadets (No. 3) meet Colgate in a game that should rest them from their bruising battle with Pitt and set them for their tussle with Rice next week.

Auburn (No. 4) meets Florida in an SEC game with an outside chance to tie for the conference lead. Auburn is ineligible for a bowl because of an NCAA ruling.

Television viewers can watch Wisconsin (No. 8), which played Ohio State to a 7-7 tie last week, tangle with Michigan State (NBC-TV, 1:30 p.m., EST—WSB-TV, Channel 2, in Atlanta), Purdue (No. 10), surprise of the Big Ten, plays Illinois, winner of its last two after losing its first three.

Air Force Academy, 13th ranked with one tie and four wins, meets toughie Oklahoma State (5-1). Navy (No. 15) plays Notre Dame (3-2) in Baltimore in the top intersectional game of the day. North Carolina (No. 17), a bowl possibility since winning its last four, plays Tennessee. California meets Oregon State in the Pacific Coast's top game. A victory would give either a definite nudge toward the Rose Bowl.

Other top games:

Commodores Sink Hurricane, 28-15

Vandy Lightweights Tack On Fourth Defeat in Five Games

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Lightweights Boyce Smith and Jim McKee led the Vanderbilt Commodores to a decisive 28-15 victory over the University of Miami Hurricanes Friday, handing the Floridians their fourth defeat in five games this season.

A disappointing and disappointed crowd of only 25,425—ten thousand less than expected—saw the fine Tennessee team erase a 7-6 deficit late in the second quarter and click for 16 points in the third.

Smith, 163-pound senior from Springfield, Tenn., engineered Vandy's first touchdown in the first quarter as the Commodores moved 53 yards in 10 plays. One of his passes netted 21 yards and another was good for 22.

Joe Bates missed on the try for extra point and Miami, moving 70 yards by ground and air, scored when Frank Bouffard ripped through center for nine. Jim Stevens added the extra point and Miami was ahead 7-6. Eleven minutes later Vanderbilt went ahead to stay when Smith passed to Bob Mullen for 12 yards and a touchdown to make it 12-7.

Smith missed two pass attempts, then flipped to Ray Hillay for 15 yards and the third Vanderbilt touchdown.

McKee passed to Hilley for the two points to give Vanderbilt a 20-7 margin.

McKee, 172-pound junior from Memphis, relieved Smith and kept the Commodores rolling with a mixture of passes and deceptive running plays.

Vanderbilt's final touchdown came when George MacIntyre's punt was blocked on the Miami nine. Tom Moore took it over from the one.

Bonnie Yarbrough, 179-pound senior from Jacksonville, brought Miami back in the final minutes when he whipped pin-point passes to move the Hurricanes to the Vandy 14 and again to the 13. Then, with two minutes left, he passed to Doug Hildebrandt on the two and Frank Bouffard bucked it over.

Newnans Roll Over Hapeville

Burson Scores Two In 34-14 Contest

Bobby Burson returned from the injury list Friday night to step in and lead Newnan to a 34-14 win over Hapeville.

Burson scored on runs of 17 and one yard, and set up two other TDs with long runs.

End Buck Hammond and guard Sonsy Gilbert led the Newnan line, which held Hapeville to 37 yards rushing and two first downs.

Newnan gained 263 yards rushing and quarterbacks Tommy Parrott and Joe Burson passed to ends Hammond, David Gladney and Wayne Singleton for 114 yards.

Dodd Leads Grady Over Murphy, 27-7

Quarterback Scores Twice, Passes for Two More in Win

By RED MULLINS

Bobby Dodd Jr. scored two touchdowns and fired for two others as Grady High's Grey Knights spoiled Murphy's homecoming with an important 27-7 victory at Grady Stadium Friday night.

The loss was Murphy's first in the City League's Eastern Division and it dropped the Eagles into a virtual stalemate with Grady and Bass behind front-running North Fulton.

Coach Jack Fligg's opportunist Knights struck early in the second quarter after halfback Jim Howard claimed a Murphy fumble at the Eagle 26. The touchdown drive was a Harold Gelber and Dodd production. The speedy Gelber carried for six, five and four yards, while Dodd carried the final seven yards on two trips, the last from three yards out on the option.

Grady's second touchdown was a 63-yard drive that started when tackle Ronald Goings pounced on a Eagle bobble at the Grady 37. After five successive first downs, mainly on runs by Gelber and Howard, the Knights had a 14-0 intermission lead. Dodd climaxed the drive with a two-yard blast for the touchdown.

In the third period a pass interception by fullback Alex Povilatis made it easy. Povilatis dashed back to the Eagle 24 and two plays later the smooth-moving Dodd arched a 19-yard pass to Povilatis, who was nailed at the five. Gelber made one, then Dodd passed the final four to Gelber for the touchdown.

Again in the final quarter the Knight defense payed off. Murphy was forced to punt after the hard-charging red-shirted Knights threw Eagle runners for 10- and 13-yard losses.

Tech Frosh Top Clemson

Tech had the slight overall offensive edge of 227-211. Tomlinson rushed for 44 yards, best of the evening; Billy Williamson for 34 and Lafkowitz for 32. Wilson had 33 for Clemson; Jimmy Hardwick, 26.

Defensive stickouts for Tech were Holt, Lafkowitz, Harold Erickson, Alvin Coley, Bob Lincoln, Shurbet, and Gann, recoverer of two fumbles. Barnes was tremendously rugged for Clemson, consistently spilling Tech ball carriers. Linebacker Jack Veronee and flanker Tommy King also sparkled.

Sylvan's Cooper Tallies 3 Times As Fumbles Hurt Southwest, 27-16

By MILLARD J. POSEY

Sylvan High sputted in the first quarter Friday night, exploded for 27 points in the second, then coasted to a 27-16 victory over Southwest at Cheney Stadium.

The Bears kept the Wolves caged in their own back yard most of the first quarter but couldn't score themselves. A fumble on Southwest's 16 placed Sylvan in scoring position. Bobby Weeks recovered, and four plays later Ronnie Perkins plunged over from the two.

Next three TDs belonged to brilliant Doug Cooper. Another Southwest fumble was recovered by John Adams on the 26. Cooper, Spence and Jordon legged it to the one with Cooper scoring and converting. A 15-yard penalty plus a stout defense forced Southwest to punt short. Perkins ran for 12, Spence for 22 and Cooper scored from the nine.

Southwest got 2 points near the end of the third quarter when Steve Milspaugh blocked a Sylvan punt, recovered by Spence in the end zone.

The Wolves' line became ferocious and Steve Slay recovered a Sylvan fumble on the 17.

Campbell Wins, 7-6, Keeps Clean Slate

Duncan To Allen Aerial Gives Edge Over Marist

BY JIM MCLENDON

The Campbell of Smyrna Panthers kept their season record perfect Friday night with a 7-6 homecoming victory over the Marist Cadets in a 4-AAA West fracas.

The Panthers had the fight of their lives doing it, however, and if the scorekeeper had paid off for anything other than points, it would have been Marist's game all the way.

The Cadets ground out 15 first downs to Campbell's four. Marist had 224 yards rushing and 30 passing compared to the Panther's 76 rushing and 22 by air.

The points make the difference, however, so Campbell thereby finished its 4-AAA West schedule undefeated and untied, and will face 4-AAA East champ Decatur in the region playoff.

Campbell struck for its touchdown on the second play of the second quarter, on a ten-yard pass play from halfback Ronny Duncan to end Tommy Allen. The play was set up by Ronald Morris recovery of a Marist fumble on the 11. A bruising tackle by senior guard Marvin Stephens had separated the ball from the Marist runner.

Marist drove 63 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter, with quarterback Ted Egan sneaking the final six yards. Halfbacks George Holloway and Stephen Henning and fullback Frank Finnocchio accounted for the rest of the yardage on the drive. The Cadets missed the tie when their attemtped run for the extra point was stopped short.

Tucker's Barrett Runs Over Angoras

By MICKEY McCARTHY

Special to The Constitution

CLARKSTON — Buddy Barrett set methodically about his Friday evening chore of scoring touchdowns and in the process Tucker put a lock on the Region 4-B South title with a 20-6 win over Clarkston here Friday night.

After a scoreless first half, Barrett turned the scoring wheels for the first time, racing around left end, and sped 66 yards for the score.

With fullback Jimmy Perkins hammering out the yardage, the Angoras stormed 72 yards after the ensuing kickoff, Perkins culminating the drive with an eight-yard burst off tackle.

Tucker came back to ice the game moments later when Marvin Hudson lateraled on the kickoff to Barrett. This time the flashy All-State candidate blazed a 72-yard pass to score.

A desperation pass by Clarkston set up Tucker's last marker. The key play in this 52-yard drive was a 36-yard jaunt by Hudson. Billy Crowder bulled the last eight yards for the tally.

Larry Ross, John Mathews and Steve Hazelrigs led the stiff Tiger defense.

Travis-Led Decatur Skins Cats for Title

'New' QB Scores 3 Times; Martin Shines in 28-0 Win

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Traveling Jeff Travis made it a hollow Halloween for Russell's Wildcats by scoring three touchdowns and setting up another as Decatur clinched the Region 4-AAA East crown with a 28-0 triumph.

Travis, switched recently from halfback to quarterback to get the Bulldogs' offense off the detour and onto the high road, tricked the Wildcats repeatedly and treated 3,000 Decatur refugees from street-roaming hobgoblins.

Virtually every one of 56 yards the 6-2, 180-pound swiftie stormed on eight carries was a clutch yard. And he made solid use of every yard his four pass completions in six flings accounted for. All 45 of them were integral parts of a second-quarter drive that sent the Bulldogs into a 21-0 lead just before halftime.

Coach Charlie Hall's Bulldogs, who won all four of their subregion battles but none of their five non-counters, played their sharpest first-half of the season in editing the Wildcats' won-lost-tied chart to read 5-3-1 and beating them out of the championship. The sterling effort throws the Bulldogs into a playoff with unconquered Smyrna Campbell at Decatur, probably on Nov. 14, for the 4-AAA title.

As sparkling as was the offensive play of Travis, converted tackle Robert Powell, who also ripped 56 yards on eight lugs, and Billy Lee, who jammed 53 on 14, it did not overshadow a great defensive effort that limited Alex Truitt's East Pointers to 102 overall yards.

Heroes of the defensive show, which included a blocked punt by center Joe Ansley, a recovery by tackle Joe Martin and a pass interception by Bobby DeFoor, were Martin—the most oustanding defender on the field — Ansley, Powell, fullback Lee, tackle Rocky Ross, guard Tommy Lucus and ends Reeder Glass and DeFoor.

Powell's 27-yard smash and Travis 22-yard scoring rollout high-lighted a 58-yard drive that put Decatur ahead, 7-0, after 4:24 in the first quarter. Doug McAfee booted the first of his four perfect conversion attempts for point number seven.

Ansley blocked a Steve Norris punt and Martin covered it four plays later, and Decatur tramped 41 yards to make it 14-0. Lee started it with a 13-yard ramble and Travis set it up for Lee to go the final yard with a 13-yard burst.

Travis completed four passes for 45 yards and streaked 22 on four lugs, scoring himself from the one, for the second period TD. Gordon Cranford smashed 27 of the necessary 45 yards on a fourth-period payoff drive. Travis skirted end for the last yard with 26 second left. It was Decatur's 56th play as compared with Russell's 37.

MARIETTA—Substitute Gary Hill broke Gainesville's back with a 99-yard pass interception and Marietta Blue Devils went on Friday night to grind out its first victory in 33 years over the Elephants, 26-0.

During that period, Gainesville had earned 14 victories and 3 ties in 17 encounters.

Quarterback Johnny Sinclair was in the driver's seat most of the rout as he gained 78 yards and a TD in 12 rushes, completed 4 of 10 passes for 47 yards and a score for 125 yards total yardage. In nine games, the 153-pounder had racked up 1,756 yards passing and running.

Gainesville, as usual, featured the aerial arm of Billy Lotheridge who completed 12 of 18 for 38 yards. Three were intercepted, by Hill, Rodger Senter and Joe Kozloski, who spearheaded a rugged defense that held the Elephants to 62 yards on the ground.

Panthers Get First By 12-0

By RAY BLACK

Southwest DeKalb's Panthers used two short passes to advantage to win their first game of the season, 12-0, over Druid Hills Friday night on the Druid Hills field.

Steve Norris passed seven yards to Richard Allen late in the third period for the first score. That pass climaxed an 83-yard drive. The final score came 21 seconds before the game's end on a 21-yard heave, Norris to Art Steckel.

An undermanned Druid Hills squad of only 23 players fought Southwest on even terms for the first half, but could not withstand an avalanche of new players in the last two quarters.

Druid Hills staged its best drive of the game late in the second quarter, one of 50 yards, only to lose the ball on a fumble on the Panthers' 14-yard stripe. That was Druid Hills' only scoring opportunity of the game.

AUTUMN-SEASON CAMPING BRINGS NEW ZEST TO LIFE

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

For a lot of folks I know, the harvest season is one of their favorite times of the year. The fields and forests are at their most bountiful period. The flowers of spring, the luxuriant growth of summer, reach their full fruition at the height of the harvest moon. The days sparkle, the nights are cool, the forested hillsides take on kaleidoscopic hues. The wilderness world is on the move—with some of its citizens going south for the winter, and others stocking their larders for the lean days ahead.

Charles Elliott

If any part of your system contains a yen to live outdoors in a tent, this is the time of year to try it. The chiggers — those maddening microscopic mites with a craving for human flesh—seem to have disappeared, and other insects are much less active than they were a few weeks ago. A campfire is comfortable after the sun goes down, and before it brings its warmth back to the morning sky. Cooking over red coals—which never fail to deposit a certain amount of ash on your bacon or in your eggs — sleeping on the ground, washing the drowsiness out of your eyes with cold creek water—these can help you appreciate the luxuries of home.

But they really have their compensation in other ways. A few mornings ago I lay under the walls of a tent, counting my blessings and listening to the sounds of dawn. We were camped on the shores of Sinclair Lake with Howard and Maxine Souther. A dawn wind moved with muted music through the pine boughs which spread a lacy canopy over the tent. The breeze was sweet and clean, without the fumes of burned gasoline. Gray light had dimmed the brilliance of the stars and the forest world was drowsily coming alive.

I crawled through the tent flaps and stood on a carpet of brown pine needles, listening to the rhythm of the wakening lake and forest world. A brown thrasher churred behind me in the brush and two crows came over the point, laughing at some crude joke one of them had evidently made about tented humans. Off the point, fish splashed noisily and when I strolled down for a closer look, I found where a deer had walked along the shore until he discovered the canvas walls or caught our scent. His tracks showed where he had paused, danced uncertainly and then double-timed back along the soft bank above the waterline.

The fish I had heard were a group of playful carp, flapping the water like a mullet school, and the sound conveyed a certain exuberance, as though they, too, shared the zest of being alive. Across the creek inlet, a squirrel barked at something and I went back to start the campfire against the morning chill, and to put the coffee water on. The aroma of coffee is the quickest way I know to get a certain gal a-stirring and on the job with breakfast pots and pans.

Many people go in for the family camping trip, and the youngsters seem to enjoy it as much as the grown-ups. This primitive style of living teaches them to do their share of getting firewood and bringing water, and if they are blessed with the right kind of folks, in helping to keep a camp clean. Somehow, in the out-of-doors, they seem to feel a sense of belonging to the family group, of sharing its responsibilities and problems, even more than they do at home. At least, that is what some of the parents claim about their kids.

Aside from that, camping is a delightful experience which is capable of giving you a new sense of values. And now—while autumn is most colorful—it is the best time for it.

Wildcats Slip Past Headland

By JACK TARVER JR.

The Westminster Wildcats downed a fired-up Headland eleven 19-13 Friday night at Headland.

The Wildcats, sparked by sophomore halfback Peyton Robinson, scored in the first, second and fourth quarters to cop their seventh consecutive victory. Robinson gained 148 yards in 12 attempts for a 12.4 average.

Westminster scored late in the first quarter on a four-yard plunge by fullback Bonneau Ansley, climaxing a 48-yard drive.

The Highlanders first tally was set up on a 45-yard pass play from quarterback Richard Alderman to Buddy Phillips to the Westminster 25. Seven plays later fullback Danny Peace cracked over from the two. Westminster guard John Mullin blocked Plunket's try for the point.

Robinson dashed 59 yards for the Wildcats' second score. Rains' PAT attempt was blocked.

Headland tied it up 13-13 with on an eight-yard Alderman to Alan Stith aerial. Plunket's PAT was good.

NORTH FULTON, BASS SPOTLIGHTED TONIGHT

Bass High's whitleather-tough defensive football team probably will send North Fulton and ace passer Woody Woodall into the air seeking their seventh straight victory Saturday night at Grady Stadium.

The battle pits the City League's most overpowering offensive team to date against the loop's most effective defensive unit. Phil Alexander's Bass outfit, led by tackle Bryson Mitchell, has allowed seven foes only 721 yards, an average of 103 per game. Frank Jernigan's Bulldogs have rolled up 1,947, averaging 278 an outing.

Woodall, one of the finest passers seen here in recent seasons, is Jernigan's hope for an "equalizer" in the set-to between two title-minded Eastern Division teams.

Roosevelt and winless Fulton will mix it in another Eastern wrangle in Cheney Stadium at the same 7:30 starting time.—ROBERTS.

Bitsy Grant Mulloy Win Senior Play

Top-seeded Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., Friday vanquished two foes to vault into the quarterfinals of the Atlanta Senior Tennis Tournament at Bitsy Grant Center.

Mulloy disposed of Charlie Hartridge, 6-4, 6-2, and Frank Wells, 6-1, 6-2, to join No. 2 seed Bitsy Grant, No. 3 seed Jack Staton, No. 4 seed Jim Vuille, Hank Crawford, Tom Bird, Glenn Dudley and Vince Connerat in the round of eight.

Grant decisioned Lyle McCannon, 6-2, 6-3; Staton stopped G. A. York, 6-0, 6-1; Vuille tripped Roy Collier, 6-0, 6-3, and Pierre Howard, 6-1, 6-1;

Late Entries Assure Carling Qualifying

By BERT PRATHER

A last-minute deluge of entries for the $25,000 Carling Open golf tournament at Cherokee Town and Country Club next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday pushed the total to 141 and assured a qualifying round for Sunday.

There are 60 on the exempt list, which means 81 non-exempt players will battle for 60 remaining places in the tournament proper.

Since there are many fine players on the non-exempt list Sunday's 18-hole "shake-down" run should provide Atlantans with some very fine golf.

There is a chance that the exempt list may be increased by two or three players before Sunday, which would reduce the qualifiers in Sunday's round accordingly.

The non-exempt list could be pushed up, too, since entries received in Saturday morning's mail will be accepted.

Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Texas, winner of the last big pro tournament here in 1950, is still a probable entry. Snead won't be here. Claude Harmon, former Masters champion, arrived Friday and played the course along with defending champion Paul Harney.

Harney, who along with other former champs Jules Boros, PGA champ Dow Finsterwald and Doug Ford stand to win $8,500 ($3,500 regulated purse, plus $5,000 bonus for repeating), predicted that it would take a score of 285 to 290 to win the big pot.

A late joiner of the exempt group was Walker Cupper Arnold Blum of Macon. Arnold, Charlie Harrison, Hugh Royer Jr., Gene Dahlbender Jr., and Sonny Ellis top the 15-man simonpure list.

Sunday's qualifying gets under way at 8:30 a.m.

Anderson Wins Again

Paul Anderson, former world champion weightlifting champ, defeated Dick The Bruiser in main go on Friday night's wrestling card at Municipal Auditorium.

The Bruiser was disqualified after 35 minutes for rules infractions.

In other matches, Ray Gunkel and Fred Blassie were both counted out while tussling out of the ring; Chief Little Eagle downed Ivan Vansky and Farmer McGregor prevailed over Tom Thumb in a midget bout.

JACKETS

backs—Carlton and Dutrow (a lefty), throw the running pass and this has proved very effective so far this season. Then, too, the Dukes employ Dave Sime, one of the world's fastest trackmen, as a lonesome end. So far, the Duke passers have failed to connect with him, overthrowing him once, throwing short once and having the other broken up.

The Jackets will likely assign halfback speedster Frank Nix to cover him since Frank is also a sprinter and equalled Sime's winning time in an indoor meet the past winter.

Tech figures to hold a big advantage in the kicking department with halfback Joe DeLany and end Gerald Burch on the firing line. Left-footed Dutrow is Duke's best but his performance thus far this year has been far short of the Jacket aces.

Fullback Lester Simerville, a lightweight but capable running fullback, is slated to get back in action after missing the SMU game with a bruised shoulder. Lester will share the position with sophomore ace Marvin Tibbetts and junior Larry Fonts. Fred Braselton, who threw a 15-yard screen pass to Simerville for one of last year's two TDs, will be at the signal post in the offensive backfield.

The Techs arrived at Raleigh-Durham Airport shortly after noon and went directly to Duke Stadium for workout. The team is headquartered at Sir Walter Raleigh Hotel in Raleigh.

sippi State lies smirking in its stall.

The Maroons, who play Kentucky Saturday night in Lexington, get a shot at both these high-flying football fillies. And an impressive win over the Wildcats could get Wade Walker's thoroughbreds in even more of an upset frame of mind for the fast-dying season.

Remaining on LSU's agenda after Saturday night are Duke, Mississippi State and Tulane. Mississippi must play Houston, Tennessee and Mississippi State.

Rebel quarterback Bobby Franklin ranks 13th in the nation in total offense with 597 yards in 118 plays. Bengal Billy Cannon is the nation's 12th best rusher with 425 yards in 68 whacks.

Weatherman predicts cool and cloudy for the 9 p.m. (Atlanta time) kickoff, expecting an end to showers and drizzle that have prevailed at Baton Rouge the past two days.

As Gator boss Woodruff commented early this week, "The problem teams have with Auburn is making first downs, let alone touchdowns."

The Plainsmen lead the nation in total defense (108.6 per game) and rushing defense (45.6).

A record crowd of 43,000 is anticipated for the contest which finds No. 4 nationally-ranked Auburn defending its 19-game undefeated streak.

Tennessee rounds out Saturday's SEC card exclusive of Georgia teams. The Volunteers are hosts to North Carolina at Knoxville.

Brown Sr., was an outstanding halfback at Tuscaloosa, and Uncle Johnny Mack is a living legend.

Ailing Cicero Lucas, who came into his own at fullback last Saturday, will also give the Bulldogs a lift if he's able. But Lucas and Nat Dye, the squad's best tackle, are question-mark performers due to injuries. End Jack Shamblin has been declared out of the game.

The Tide was reported in near peak physical condition and, of course, Coach Bryant will have the troops in a proper mental frame for his coming out social. The Bulldogs are also ready, and this is likely to be a game that you can hear as well as see. Leather poppin' is a specialty of both outfits.

Smith, Watkins Pace Forest Park, 27-12

Special to The Constitution

FOREST PARK—Wayne Smith and Jerry Watkins delighted 3,500 Homecoming fans by leading Forest Park to its eighth straight victory of the season, a 27-12 effort over West Gwinnett here Friday night.

Smith scored a pair of TDs, the first on a 57-yard pass from Watkins and the second on a 10-yard run. Watkins also passed to David Brown for another score. Smith scored two of the extra points on runs.

Forest Park guard Jack Aaron made the line play of the night when he blocked a John Everett punt on the nine and scampered across the goal line. Tackle Larry Foster also stood out for the home team.

of three successive extra points.

Moments later Petitbon found the elusive Mason alone at Tulane's 47. When the Tech defenders arrived, little Boo—a great name for a Halloween hero—launched a merry chase that ended with a Raider propelling him into the end zone.

Petitbon's interception at his 13 spoiled any pre-intermission scoring plans harbored by Lubbock forces.

Petitbon returned the third quarter kickoff 24 yards to his 34, and seven plays later Tulane upped the margin. Petitbon's 11-yarder to Percy Colon and his 15-yarder to Mason kept the ball rolling.

The point payoff came when left half Colon crossbuckled 17 yards through right guard and ran over the last two tacklers at the two.

Aroused by the 21-point deficit Ken Rice hauled the kickoff 68 yards, Tommy Mason nailing him at the Wave 23.

This threat fizzled at the four, and the Raiders tried again, this time following Floyd Dellinger's fancy pass-snagging 57 yards to the one. Still no soap—or points.

Tulane marched 74 yards in 14 plays for its final touchdown. Petitbon tossed to end Leo Young and Boo Mason spearheaded the advance. Colon bulled five yards off right tackle to finish scoring.

There were other threats by both sides, but no more action for the scoreboard tender.

Petitbon completed nine of 11 passes for 170 yards and two touchdowns, his second and third TD pitches of the season. He had four completions erased by penalties.

It was a bumper night for red handkerchiefs, Tech drawing 89 yards in fouls. The victory was Tulane's second against five losses. Tech is 2-4. The Wave tackles Bama here next week.

Transfer Liquor Control To a Board, Jury Urges

illegal liquor "did not contain a true statement of the facts as known by the dealers" who appeared before the grand jury in connection with the matter.

In connection with its criticism of the revenue department, the grand jury recommended enactment of a series of laws which it said would "make fraudulent acts more easily determined on regular audits" and prevent cheating on merit examinations.

ASK LAW ON RECEIPTS

Regarding its charge of loose handling of tax proceeds, the jury said the Fulton legislative delegation should introduce a bill to make it a misdemeanor for any person to make payments to the state "without receiving an official receipt therefor."

The same law would also apply to employes who accepted payments "without giving an official receipt therefor," said the jury.

The jury said its probe of the Sales and Use Tax Unit determined that "a great laxity exists in the method of submitting the taxpayers' sales tax returns." It said the common practice is to "accept unsigned sales tax returns.

"This practice not only makes it much more difficult to determine the validity of the return, but facilitates alteration of records," the jury declared.

HITS HIRING PRACTICES

To correct this, the jury said a bill should be passed in the General Assembly to make it a misdemeanor "for any official or employe of the State Revenue Department to accept or file an unsigned tax return."

Turning to employment practices in the Revenue department, the jury contended that the department has employed persons who were unqualified by education and experience to fill the positions in which they were placed.

This was accomplished, the jury said, "by officials and employes in the Revenue department surreptitiously obtaining copies of the Merit System examinations and answers and supplying same to applicants. . . ."

The jury charged that in some instances these answers were reduced in size so that applicants taking the exams "could have same placed under the cellophane of cigarette packages and thereby have ready access to the answers while taking the examination."

FAILED LATER

When the merit system learned of the cheating, it required the suspected individuals to take new and different tests and these persons "were unable to attain a passing grade," the jury pointed out.

Besides recommending that laws be passed to make it a misdemeanor for a person to cheat or for any person to assist in cheating on the examinations, the jury also asked that laws be passed to prevent the employment by the state or the continuing in employment of persons known to have received assistance on the examinations.

The jury also asked that the incoming November - December term grand jury, which will be impaneled Tuesday, follow up on Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams' promise to have his department in complete compliance with merit system regulations by Nov. 14.

The jury's brief comment on removing the liquor industry from control of the revenue commissioner said that it is apparent that the industry "is anxious about its security when one person has complete control and absolute discretion over the issuance and revocation of licenses."

It said it recommended placing the industry under the control of a board "in the interest of sound administration and better control of the whisky industry, and in an effort to protect the whisky dealers who want to administer their business on a legal basis without demands being made upon them."

Other sections of the jury's presentments dealt with needed changes in state laws on the sale of explosives, sentencing and parole of prisoners, conditions at Fulton Juvenile Detention Home, the State Training School for Girls and the Boys' Training School; the need for parental backing of local school officials in their fight against juvenile rowdyism in schools, a call for reduced tensions in racial relations and the condition of local jails and public works camps.

The section on the sale of explosives said current laws on the sale and possession of explosives "are not effective." The jury recommended laws to make it a felony to "buy, sell, or possess explosives such as dynamite and nitrogylcerin without a permit."

dren but for their sake he had tried to persuade them to "make the best they can of their time with her."

"They're good children," Jackson said, "and they mind me about everything but this. They just flatly refuse to spend any more time with her. The court ordered me to take them to her, to pay $25 to hire a deputy to guard them and to give her $10 to pay for their board while they're visiting her. It's not easy. We have to do without a lot to pay that and the $40 a month alimony—but I tried to do it. But I'm not going to beat the kids to make them stay with her."

Jackson said he arrived with the children a few minutes before 6 p.m., the court-appointed time for the visit. He said the deputy had not arrived but Mrs. Jackson was in the lobby and he left Johnny and Mary Elizabeth with her.

"I took them and started upstairs and they broke and ran," Mrs. Jackson said. "I tried to tell them we would have a nice time, looking at television and all, but they just didn't respond at all. They haven't in a long time."

Asked if she thought she could win her children's affection back during an enforced visit with a deputy sheriff on guard outside the door, Mrs. Jackson said, "I don't know about that but they've got to obey the court. It's a court order."

Judge Hubert's order, dated October 21, says the children "have failed and refused to abide" by an earlier order directing them to visit their mother, and have "escaped from the custody of their mother during times ordered for their visit." It charges that their father "failed and refused to encourage said children to comply with the order" and that the children "stated in open court they will not voluntarily comply." The order directs Jackson to employ a deputy to "keep them under surveillance from the time of their delivery to their mother" at 6 p.m. on Friday to 6 p.m. on Saturday.

$7,500 Check Was Loan, Whitman Tells Educators

full public accounting of his dealings with Massee after he has reported on it to the board and to Gov. Griffin. The governor is out of the state this week on a hunting trip.

A legislative investigating subcommittee headed by Sen. Bobby Lee Cook of Summerville exposed Whitman's check to Massee last Tuesday. The subcommittee produced bank records showing that the check was made payable to Massee on March 1, 1957.

Whitman, who has done considerable business with the state through the Purchasing department, refused on Monday to testify before Cook's subcommittee. Previously, Massee had denied that he had received any money or gifts from Whitman.

Massee resigned his state job following disclosure of the check. He denied any wrong-doing. He said at "the proper time" he would "give a detailed report and explanation of my official conduct while in office."

In his informal explanation to school board members, Whitman contended that he had made the loan to Massee in the presence of witnesses and that the transaction had been entered the books of his company, Industrial Tape and Supply Co.

Whitman said that Massee repaid the loan in cash the following October. The school board chairman, it was reported, said the loan was interest free and repayable upon demand.

Whitman told the board members he had given the same information to the Fulton County solicitor's office which is investigating the affair.

Whitman himself has thus far made no public explanation of the check.

There had been some speculation that Whitman might follow Massee's lead and resign his state office. But he made no mention of resigning in his conference with school board members.

The matter is not of direct concern to the board. But Whitman said he felt he had a responsibility to give the board an explanation.

Board members present for the Macon meeting were Whitman, Vice Chairman James S. Peters of Manchester, Francis Shurling of Wrightsville, Henry A. Stewart of Blackshear, Clarke W. Duncan of Beuna Vista, and Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge of Athens.

Williams Endorses Bills Requiring Tax Receipts

pass on granting of liquor licenses.

"I feel that the revenue collection portion (of the liquor laws) should remain under the next Revenue Commissioner," Williams said.

Presentments issued by the grand jury Friday noted that indictments had been made against Revenue Dept. officials in the past few weeks in connection with embezzlement of some $100,000 in sales tax receipts.

"There have been some discrepancies in the department with reference to handling of funds by employes . . . both before and during my term," Williams commented.

The commissioner added that the department itself had uncovered some of the shortages and turned information about them over to the attorney general, the grand jury and the Fulton solicitor's office.

(Williams himself was indicted by the outgoing jury on charges of cheating and defrauding the state of the services of three named Revenue Dept. employes. He will go to trial next week on an earlier indictment of larceny after trust of "private" enforcement funds collected from liquor dealers.)

Don't Scream About Life, Faith Baldwin Urges

By YOLANDE GWIN

Miss Faith Baldwin, as sprightly, charming and interesting as the characters she conceives, gave would-be writers a literary shot in the arm here Friday.

"Hard work and sweat is the only answer. I am no teacher of novel writing. I've never been an instructor. I just write," she said as she waited for the opening program of the 10th annual Writers Conference to get under way yesterday at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Author of 72 books, countless articles, serials and verse, Miss Baldwin pointed out, "Young writers should stick to what they know best—that's just everyday life. They live it. They know what's going on and that in itself is a story. Life makes stories. Life makes novels. Why try to improve on the subject?"

When questioned about today's youth and the continued and seemingly never-ending news about family conflicts, divorces and unhappiness, she said:

"There is always a lot of screaming about these things, but the real trouble is there is too much talk about them now. Things like this have been going on for years and we just weren't too conscious of the situation. Every generation is going to better the world and each does in a way make marked advancement.

YOUTH DO MORE

"Youth today probably is more in the news because they do more things that make news. They have more cars, they can go into more bars and their life is at a faster pace. Then too many women — mothers — went out to work and that changed the family. But the world and this generation is living better and we are advancing over the last one. We shouldn't do so much screaming about life. After all, it is wonderful."

An example of the "forever young in heart" tag, Miss Baldwin arrived bright and early for the conference. Alighting from a cab she said, "I was running late and dashed away from home and forgot my powder and lipstick. Had to stop at a drugstore and get some."

"Home" for this whirlwind visit here is at the residence of her son, Hugh Cuthrell Jr. and Mrs. Cuthrell in Chamblee.

Her latest novel, "Many Windows," is fresh and new on the bookstands of the nation.

"It came out on my 65th birthday," she said. Her birthday is Oct. 1. Birthplace, New Rochelle, N.Y.

FIRST BOOK

Her first published book in 1921 was "Mavis of Green Hill."

"But that's not the first thing I wrote," she said. "When I was 9 years old I wrote 'The Deserted Wife' for the school play. I must have been a terrible snob for I remember I insisted that all the waiters in the play had to wear evening clothes. I kept the manuscript for years and in fact I had it until last year when it disappeared."

Wearing a flowered print, a fur cape and a small close-fitting hat, the small 97-pound writer spoke informally about her life at her home, Fable Farms, in Norwalk, Conn.

"I'm busy like any other woman my age. However, I don't garden, but have a few plants in the home. I spend a great deal of time writing of course, and also trying to keep up with my heavy correspondence. I do not have a secretary. Oh, yes, I enjoy people but not too many at once. My favorite entertaining is having a couple or so in for dinner. Never big parties, however. I love to travel and went around the world all by myself several years ago."

TALLULAH FALLS

Then the quiz target was shifted.

"Now tell me about the Tallulah Falls School. How are the children there and is it growing as much as I hear? You know I have a scholarship there. Have they more new buildings and what about the student body, is it still growing too?"

Facts and figures were supplied Miss Baldwin, who came to Atlanta in 1936 and made a special trip to the school which later formed the basis of an article.

Miss Ancarrow Is Named Officer Of 8th District Quota Group

Mrs. Evelyn Ancarrow of Land O' Lakes drive has been elected governor of the Eighth District of Quota International.

Miss Dorothy Hill of Peachtree circle has taken the district's office of secretary-treasurer.

The elections took place at a conference held in Savannah. Other Atlantans attending the affair were Mrs. Martha Houck, president of the Atlanta Quota Club; Miss Mary Ellen Spencer, Mrs. Laura Ruth McNeil and Mrs. Eloise Weldon.

She Guides Girls Across Threshold to Womanhood

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A classroom rebel left her school to become a "mother" to some 50,000 girls who crossed the threshold to womanhood under her guidance.

The "mother," Miss Maxine Keith, executive director of the Girls Clubs of America, visited her Atlanta "daughters" this week in an "educational trip" to retain the close contact she wants with members of chapter organizations throughout the country.

"Atlanta is a perfect example of the growth of our organization," she said proudly. "Since I was last here, less than three years ago, the Atlanta Girls' Club has moved into fine, large new quarters. And another club, Grady Homes, has come into existence."

"MOTHER" VISITS HUNDREDS OF DAUGHTERS
Miss Maxine Keith, Executive Director, Girls Clubs of America

A schoolteacher for five years, the trim Indiana woman declared that "something in me rebelled at a set course of study," and, always interested in social work, she decided to enter that field.

She enrolled at the National Recreation School in New York and soon was a girls' club director in her home state. For 10 years, she was a member of the Springfield, Mass., club.

"I had the privilege of watching girls, usually from below-average homes, grow up to become fine wives, mothers and citizens," she disclosed. "Many of them have brought their children back to see me. And some have gone into social work themselves."

Now in its 13th year, the national organization has more than doubled its membership in the last five years, and Miss Keith sees a "future unlimited." A member of Community Services, the Girls Club members, Miss Keith pointed out, are there "because they want to come."

"We are a relatively young organization," she observed. "For some reason, people used to think there was no need for such clubs for girls, as there were for boys. Probably because the girls stayed home with mama to learn the necessary home-making arts. But, of course, many of them didn't learn, and gradually the need for an organization to fill the gap in the lives of the girls was recognized."

But she warned that the need has not yet been fulfilled.

"And in any community," she continued, "there are qualified adults who are willing to become a part of the help such clubs offer. They realize that through the Girls Clubs tomorrow's women will be 100 times a better wife, mother, citizen or executive.

"It's up to the community to find — and fill — their needs. NOW!"

Burdetts Plan Drive To San Francisco

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burdett Jr. are hoping with all their hearts that snow will not fly early in the West, for today they are leaving to drive to San Francisco by the northern route.

"We plan to go by way of Denver, Salt Lake City and Reno," said Mrs. Burdett. "That is, if the roads are not choked with snow. We are keeping our fingers crossed."

The pair will attend the annual convention of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards in San Francisco Nov. 8-13. Afterward they will go to Los Angeles and points in southern California for some sightseeing, returning by way of the Grand Canyon. They will be away three weeks.

MR. AND MRS. ALLISON ADAMS moved Tuesday into the home recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Louie Wood at 2063 Dellwood Dr. The Woods' new address is 39 Palisades Rd.

ELIZABETH APPLETON and her Auburn roommate, Jane Harrelson of Guntersville, Ala., flew into town on Thursday and yesterday they caught the owl flight to New York, en route to Hartford, Conn., to attend the Yale-Dartmouth football game and the attendant festivities. They will fly back to Auburn on Sunday, just in time to plunge into midterm exams on Monday.

DRAMATIC SOPRANO PATRICIA HEURMANN leaves Monday for New York on a very exciting mission. She will make her New York debut as soloist with the American Symphony Orchestra next Friday evening at the Hunter College Auditorium. And the following Sunday afternoon there will be a repeat performance at the Brooklyn Museum. Atlanta's Enrico Leide conducts the American Symphony.

The artist is Mrs. Eric Heurmann in private life. Her husband leaves Thursday to join her in New York to hear her sing. Her mother, Mrs. W. R. Calhoun, leaves today with friends for New York, and she will also be in the audience when her daughter sings.

Mrs. Heurmann is studying voice with Ludwig Fabri in New York.

"I fly to New York for a week once a month or at least every six weeks," she said. "I did not want to give up my career when I married, so I'm extremely fortunate to have both my mother and my husband's mother here to look after my three small children while I am away."

MRS. WALKER L. CURTIS, president of the Southern Medical Auxiliary, and Dr. Curtis leave today for New Orleans to attend the convention of the Southern Medical Assn. They will be hosts at a reception Monday evening at the St. Charles Hotel.

BRIDE-ELECT LINDA BABB will be honor guest when Mrs. Charlie Walker entertains today at tea and a shower at Rich's Magnolia Room.

PHILLIPS CUTTINO, a student at Baylor, is spending the weekend with his parents, the David S. Cuttinos Jr. of Emory road.

MEMBERS OF THE SENIOR CLASS at Agnes Scott and their families will gather for tea in Walters Hall this afternoon as guests of the college.

Ann Worthy Johnson, Julia Gary, Kathryn Manuel and Sara Ripy will assist Dean of Students Carrie Scandrett in serving. The class sponsors William Calder and Miss Llewellyn Wilburn, will also assist in entertaining.

FREDERIKA RAPP, daughter of Mrs. Arthur E. Rapp Jr. of 44 Lakeland Dr., NW, has been named a member of the debate team at the University of Alabama where she is a junior in the college of education. Miss Rapp is also serving as assistant manager of the debate team.

Party Planned For UNICEF

Youngsters of the Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Decatur will meet Saturday, Nov. 1, for a party in honor of their trick or treat rounds for UNICEF Halloween night.

Mrs. John Wolfrum is chairman of the affair.

One Puff---and There's a Glass

Christopher Altier of Oak Park, Ill., gave a huff and a puff and like magic there was a champagne glass.

"I work with small burners and use glass rods," he said as he began another big puff. "I use four different colors such as sunshine yellow, blue, ruby and clear."

Mr. Altier, Italian born, said he came from a glass-blowing family, but "I just started it about 15 years ago after I came to the United States."

"My traveling—for four years now as a representative of the Rheem Manufacturing Co., Chicago—has been for entertaining and educational purposes."

These two features will be demonstrated Saturday during the luncheon hour at the Luau when Mr. Altier will blow various shapes in glass, exactly as the world-renowned Venetian glass-blowing artisans have been doing for centuries.

Women with their sense of design or color harmony would be good glass blowers, he said, and added that he did not think the art "too complicated" for the fair sex.

"My daughter, Christa Jo, who is 16 and a junior in high school, is learning the art. I will say this, the work does require an artistic eye."

Mr. Altier is the guest of C. V. Webb on Brookdale drive and since his arrival here has been blowing glass for the entertainment of many children's groups, hospitals as well as appearing at civic affairs. "Everybody seems to like my birds better than anything else," he said. "Especially their big white eyes."

Homework Is Mostly Art For Talented Teen-Ager

More often than not, David Turnipseed turns homework into art.

The 17-year-old senior at Campbell High School in Fairburn is a talented young artist who finds it hard to say "no" when classmates seek his help. And they seek his help—for posters, bulletin board displays, signs, program covers, pamphlets, and many more activities that require the kind of creative thinking David unfailingly provides.

Not that he has any complaints, except that maybe "they seem to think it only takes a few seconds" to whip up a drawing or cartoon, when actually the youth spends a great deal of time creating the illustration in his mind before transferring it to paper. David is a good student, but "sometimes my homework suffers," he admitted. The art work takes up most of his spare time. When he's not at his drawing board, he's usually engaged in some activity of his church, where he works part of the time at the pastor's office, "doing whatever I can" to help out.

CHURCH WORKER

An active member of the Union City Methodist Church, he has been president of the Methodist Youth Fellowship twice, and, in fact, has held most of the organization's offices at one time or another. He's also active in the work of the South Subdistrict MYF, which is an organization made up of more than 200 young people. Part of this work for the MYF includes editing the subdistrict's monthly newspaper, "The Inkspot." David does all the work on the newspaper, except for part of the typing.

His original covers for the publication are neat, attractive and good examples of the talent he possesses. For special dates, such as St. Valentine's Day, Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas, his illustrations reflect the true spirit of each occasion.

David taught himself to type so he could publish the newspaper and work in the evenings after school typing for the pastor of his church. "Now I'm taking the academic course in school," he disclosed, "with plans of working to pay my way through college and someday becoming an architect."

HANDBOOK ARTIST

After submitting a series of original drawings in competition with other Fulton County high school students, David was selected to illustrate the third edition of "Your Library," a handbook in the use of books and libraries.

The third edition was re-written by Mrs. Virginia McJenkin, director of Fulton County School Libraries, and librarians of Fulton County high schools. The librarians include Willene Webster, Velma O'Kelley White, Virginia Wilson, Elizabeth Jones, Mary Belle England, Dorris Callahan, Frances Saxon, Latrelle Seymour, Louise McDaniel, Elizabeth Whitehead, Ellene McIntyre. All of them have been impressed with the bright, interpretive drawings by David.

The pleasant, modest young man feels none of the time he spends at the drawing board is wasted. And those who've seen samples of his work view them as a promise of a brilliant future in the field of art.

Future Business Leaders to Meet

With their slogan, "Building Toward a Brighter Business Future," in mind, high school students from throughout the state—Future Business Leaders of America—will hold regional meetings Saturday to share in the planning of the organization's activities this year.

All FBLA clubs in the northern half of Georgia will meet at Avondale High School Saturday morning and clubs in the southern half of the state will meet at Tifton.

Miss Sarah Head, Decatur High School, state adviser of FBLA, will direct the activities of the Avondale meeting. Plans call for an all-day session of group sharing and discussion. FBLA members of Avondale, Decatur and Chamblee high schools will be hosts.

OFFICERS

Harriett Vaughn, state president, will open the meeting and officially greet delegates from the clubs. She will be assisted by Mary Alice Jerkins, South Cobb High School, state vice president. Marie Wallace, Marietta, state treasurer, will report on the financial status of the state organization.

At the group assembly, the president of each club in attendance will make a report on planned activities on the local level. Miriam Johnson, Hapeville High School, will explain her chapter's "Scholarship and Merit Awards" project, which is a part of Hapeville's annual program. Margene Shelton, pianist, Hapeville, will lead the group in the FBLA song.

Groups will be formed after the general assembly to study planning for the year. Sponsors will meet at lunch to discuss plans for the state convention at Rock Eagle in April.

During the morning session Miss Mildred Witten, adviser for Business Education Services from the State Department of Education, will be available as a consultant. Following a fried chicken luncheon, Max Ransom, former FBLA sponsor and a leader in business education, will address the students.

ENCOURAGES

Sponsored by the United Business Education Assn., FBLA is the national youth organization for high school and college students enrolled in business subjects. Operating as a part of the school program under the guidance of business teachers, school administrators and businessmen, it is "democratically organized and designed for all business students." Devoted to providing young men and women with educational, vocational and leadership experiences, FBLA encourages improvement in scholarship, promotes school loyalty and strengthens the confidence of young adults in themselves and their work.

The state organization, with headquarters at Decatur High School, publishes "The Business Leader," with Decatur High student Bonnie Jett as state reporter.

Sue Bradley Heads Moultrie Press Club

MOULTRIE—Sue Bradley has been elected president of the Press Club, with Faye Wildes as vice president; Kay McHargue, secretary; Bobby Benton, treasurer.

Larry Hyde is the adviser, and members include Patricia Mills, Mary Nell Dupree, Emily Jean Hiers, Joyce Norman, Barbara Plymel, Maxine Trickey, Linda DeMott.

RECORD ROUNDUP

Georgian on Wax; 'Sands Storm' Hits Here

By BETTY CARROLLTON

Another Georgian has been added to the list of star-climbers in the record world: Botie Quinn Chitty of Valdosta has been signed by Artists Recording Co. and his first disc was released this week.

"Walk Right In," rock 'n' roll number, which sounds like a hit, is coupled with a rhythm and blues jump tune, "The Teen-Age Bop." Well-known to Georgians for his dance music with his own Top Hatters, the singer records under the name, Botie Quinn.

The Georgian, who received his Master's Degree in music from the University of Georgia this year, wrote "Walk Right In" while Jack Jackson, formerly a radio announcer in Atlanta, Savannah and Valdosta, now president of Double "M" Music Co., Inc., penned "Teen-Age Bop."

Botie and his wife, the former Joyce Woods of Avondale Estates, have two children, and are living in Valdosta.

ALBUM APPLAUSE: Young America's singing favorite, Tommy Sands, exhibits the versatile talent that boosted him

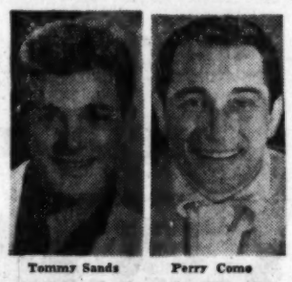

NEW RECORD STAR

Valdosta's Botie Quinn

to stardom in his fine new album, "Sands Storm," a collection of songs that have special meaning for the campus set. Tommy presents his versions of such tunes as "Maybellene," "Hearts of Stone," "Since I Met You Baby," "Oop Shoop," "Hey, Miss Fannie," "Tweedlee Dee," "Honey Love," and others — some turbulent, some tender, but always with a great beat. The winning warbler gives especially fine treatment to "Blue Velvet."

The Four Freshmen skillfully blend their voices to produce a mellow mood with bright new package, "Voices in Love." The boys have already developed many new easy-listening album adventures with trombone, trumpet and sax quintets. Now they are backed by an unusual string combination of violas and cellos, and a rhythm group to set a nostalgic mood for such songs as "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "In The Still of the Night," "I'll Remember April," "I Heard You Cried Last Night," "There is No Greater Love," and others. The Four Freshmen turn in polished performances with their vocal dynamics — a happy, high-style sound destined for steady spins.

TEEN TUNES: "Peek-A-Boo" by The Cadillacs is a catchy novelty that should soar, backed with "Oh, Oh Lolita." . . . Roy Hamilton's fine single, "Pledging My Love" (flip is "My One and Only Love") is lifted from his brilliant new album, "With All My Love." For the package, Roy's electrifying voice illuminates a dozen ballads, all with love as the theme, including "Always," "Time After Time," "All My Love," "Cheek to Cheek" and others. . . . Slay and Crewe have come up with a real gasser in "Pajama Party" and "Walkie Talkie" recorded by Jackie Clark. . . . The Olympics point out "Everybody Needs Love" in promising contender, backed by "Dance With the Teacher." . . . The Everly Brothers rack up another winner with "Problems" and "Love of My Life." . . . Chuck Berry couples solid-sender "Sweet Little Rock and Roll" with an interesting novelty rocker, "Joe Joe Gun." . . . Marty Robbins gives "Ain't I the Lucky One" and "The Last Time I Saw My Heart" sock treatment.

WELCOME WAXING: The Mitchell Ayres Orchestra and the Ray Charles Singers join Perry Como to produce one of the week's most beautiful albums, "When You Come to the End of the Day." The appealing album includes smooth, sincere treatment of such favorites as "Whither Thou Goest," "In The Garden," "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," "I May Never Pass This Way Again." . . . Jo Stafford has a dandy disc in danceable "Hibiscus," backed with cute ditty, "Lazy Moon." . . . Lillian Briggs gives "Hey! Ba-Ba-Re-Bop" exciting new treatment, with rockaballad, "I've Got Your Heart" as the flip. . . . Atlanta's Paul Peek is riding "Olds-Mo-William" straight to the top of hit charts throughout the country. . . . Current chart-climbers include Sal Mineo's "Souvenirs of Summertime" and "Baby Face," Elvis' "One Night" and "I Got Stung," The Four Preps' "Gidget" and "Cinderella," The Four Coins' "The World Outside," Duane Eddy's "Cannon Ball." . . . Tony Martin serves up a delightful musical dish with "She Serves a Nice Cup of Tea."

COUNTRY HARVEST: Among the most popular and versatile of the country and western performers are Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs, who combine their talents for album debut, "Foggy Mountain Jamboree," a collection that shows the ease with which they move from rhythmic numbers to ballads of any kind, and back again. The boys' country flavored harvest of hits for the package include "Flint Hill Special," "Foggy Mountain Special," "Shuckin' the Corn," "Foggy Mountain Chimes," "Randy Lynn Rag." Lester and Earl re-create some of the tunes that are favorites with audiences where they appear, such as "Blue Ridge Cabin Home," "Reunion in Heaven," "Some Old Day," "Your Love Is Like a Flower," "It Won't Be Long." Other tunes include "Earl's Breakdown," "Jimmie Brown, the Newsboy."

Waycross High Students Adopt Code of Honor

WAYCROSS—Courtesy, respect, dependability, sportsmanship and high morals are being spotlighted by students at Waycross High School, who have drawn up a code of honor as a pattern of behavior throughout the year.

Drafted under the leadership of the Student Council, the entire student body at Waycross High is striving to practice courtesy in the halls, library, cafeteria, classroom, chapel and in all phases where courtesy is required.

Code of honor regulations also require students to show proper respect for the helpfulness of the teachers, the efforts of fellow students, school property and the institution's rules and regulations.

Three phases of school life are included under the dependability section of the code: Striving to show dependability in school studies, school clubs and in sports.

The morally conscious youths are striving to be cognizant of their moral duty to take examinations without help to, or from, other students, their responsibility to be a good example to others by the words they say and the things they do, and of their intention to be the best they can at school, in the community and at home.

Students have also pledged themselves to practice good sportsmanship toward the team with which they play the game, toward the team against which they play, and toward their classmates wherever they may be together.

The final pledge of the code calls for students to be present for every class, every meeting of the clubs to which they belong, and for every school event

CAMPUS COMMENTS

'Brains' Losing Battle, Students Say

The raging battle between brains and brawn in today's high schools draws arrows of indignation from most students who wrote Young Ideas this week. And while the majority admit brains are losing the hard-fought battle, at least as far as recognition of achievement is concerned, few can offer concrete suggestions for a winning campaign by the battle-scarred, study-conscious fighters. Many students criticized the concentration on athletic prowess, and declared "brainy" members of the student body deserve even more acclaim than those whose achievements are confined to the field of sports. However, they see winning such recognition still as more of a challenge than a promise.

In this week's winning letter, Terry Pickett, Crawfordville, a senior at Alexander Stephens Institute, views the question from the standpoint of a student who has "the great advantage of having not much" of either brains or brawn, and "can observe the matter in an abstract manner." Terry insists "in our schools, both are offered and neither overbalanced too often:"

First, I considered the question in application to the future. . . . I see all around me complicated mechanisms that I'm completely unable to decipher. . . . A greater mental capacity would prove beneficial to myself and my generation. Yet I cannot fail to notice that physical aptitude can be very useful. I find myself envying the star athletes after they've just completed a track race, scored a basket or made a touchdown and all the girls crowd about them. I know of many men in well-paid fields, such as forestry, agriculture, engineering and they depend greatly on their physical good health, yet they need brains. . . .

There are as many scholarships and recognitions for the studious as for the athletic. Of course it is inevitable that a minority, in either course, with extraordinary talent or ability will receive some special attention. It seems to me, as I've watched them, that students who excel in good grades and scholastic achievement appear to be proud without fanfare. But they receive their praise through the Beta Club, representing the school in debates and other meetings, and finally being accepted into any college they choose to attend.

Perhaps we could use a little less of one or the other, but somehow I doubt it. There are those who study and learn, no matter what the conditions. There are those who will play games and lead in extracurricular activities. And last, but not least, there are those, more like myself, who excel in neither study nor athletics, but go to their studies with average results, and yell for their team on game nights. Then try like mad to get into their chosen college.

Shirley James, 13, College Park, points out "survival of the fittest pertains to the person who can use his or her mind to its best ability, and go out into the world to succeed:"

It takes brains to get anywhere in this world of complexity. If you have both brains and brawn, it's all the better, providing you're a boy. However, even the strength of Atlas won't feed the brain or guarantee financial security. Boys sometimes try to be "he-men" and the handsomest guys in the school. But most girls want a boy friend with well-rounded capabilities, both mentally and physically.

There definitely should be more recognition of outstanding scholastic achievements . . . the main problem now is to provide more challenges to the gifted students, and arouse greater interest in the average students. If the brainy students have a goal to strive for, they will surely do much better work. In all probability, they will come out ahead in the "brains and brawn race." There is too much emphasis on sports in high school. Today's students concentrate more on who'll make the team, or who's going to win the game than on their studies. Brawn is important, but it's the brain power of today's youth that will make tomorrow's world a better place in which to live.

Atlantan Carole Marion Kenney, 16, declares brawn is defeating brains, but points out that in most schools a player must maintain at least a "B" average scholastically to obtain and keep his position on the team:

Sports are just as important in developing a strong, sound body as the prescribed classroom studies are important in developing a strong, sound mind. In order to receive the full benefit, both must be evenly combined. If each school would make it compulsory that students desiring to participate in competitive sports maintain a high scholastic average, it would impress upon the minds of the students the importance of both brains and brawn.

Pat Ray, 17, Fairburn, believes today's young people have an important decision to make—whether or not good grades are more important than popularity, because "it seems one cannot be both:"

If only half as much encouragement were given the studious as the athletic, what a great country would emerge! It seems the intellectuals of today are ridiculed and laughed at instead of praised. Good grades are not accidents! There is as much work for most people to make good grades as there is to run the many yards for a touchdown. . . . It will eventually be the intellect that comes out on top. The muscle-bound will not always rule. There'll come a day when the intellectual will win out because of the pressure of sputniks, missiles, H-bombs and the like.

Bunny Parks of Manchester poses a couple of questions, and adds that no satisfactory answers have yet been found:

Was it Samson's brawn or brain that finally triumphed over his enemies? Was it David's brain or his well-trained muscles that felled Goliath? Is it brawn or brain that wins football games? I haven't yet found any satisfactory answers, but I have observed that it's brawn most people applaud. Compare the mob of people at athletic contests with the handful who attend debating or literary meets. It hardly seems fair for those who work so hard for scholastic honors to receive so little recognition, and the big muscle boys to receive so much.

Harold Hawkins, Decatur, believes the battle derives from each individual's desire for respect and recognition, and while the scholar seeks this through mental prowess, the athlete must seek it through accomplishments on the field:

It's impossible to determine whether scholarship is more important. . . . Each is prejudiced by his own particular ability. Since it's not easy to decide which is more important, recognition for outstanding achievement should be approximately the same for athlete and scholar. . . . Within recent years, appreciation and respect for scholarship has been improved . . . but still has not reached the level of recognition for athletics. However, the day of equal respect is in sight. Recognition for athletic accomplishment is usually manifest in a letter. The scholar does not necessarily want a letter, but rather a general acceptance by his fellow student that scholarship is just as important as athletics.

Among the many students who declare "brains" should have more recognition, but who also believe such will never be the case are Jimmy Turner, 16, Fairburn, who thinks most young people agree "brains are for the squareheads who are too far gone to even try to help." Allen Jennins, 17, who observes that while the musclemen are in the limelight more, "people with scholastic ability will be remembered longer," and Eddie Willingham, 18, who insists "brains can never make the team. They just don't fit in the crowd and will always be called oddballs, squares and cubes. Brains will always be more popular," he added. "The eggheads are for the birds."

Myrna Jean Banks, 17, College Park, declares there never actually will be a winner between intellectual power and muscular ability, and points out:

It takes a great deal of studying of a wide variety of subjects for one to become what is known as a brain, a very smart person. There have been many developments because of someone having the initiative to learn, then using their knowledge for creative thinking. It takes one with both brain and brawn to get the most out of life. A football player who makes a touchdown is making his brawn visible to the public. He also has to have brains to know just how to work his way to the goal line. It takes brains to figure out new and better ways to outfox the opponent. Therefore, there will never be a decisive answer to the question, "Can brains win the battle with brawn?" There will always be some things that brain cannot do without brawn, and some things that brawn cannot do without brain.

Are Today's Teen-Agers More Mature?

A nationally-known publisher recently declared that today's teen-agers are "much more mature—a full five years older in attitude than teens of the previous generation." Do you agree? What evidence can you offer to support your opinion?

The Constitution will pay $10 to the high school student who writes the best letter on this subject, and $1 for each additional letter used. Address entries to Young Ideas Editor; include name, address, age, school and grade. Letters must be postmarked by midnight Tuesday, Nov. 4, and should not exceed 500 words.

Redheads' Melodic Madness Is Highly Contagious Mirth

By BETTY CARROLLTON

The scene was New Orleans. First on the day's agenda for the trio of "Crazy People" whose joy of living is as contagious as the measles, was a noon TV appearance. Two of them—handsome, broad-shouldered Saul and tall, personable Major—were on hand bright and early, ready with the quip-artee that flavors any conversation with Somethin' Smith and The Redheads.

But the third — Somethin' Smith himself—was still savoring the sleep of the dead-tired in the comfort of his hotel room bed. Which was no surprise to The Redheads, who knew that Smith, the trio's lone bachelor, had been "sight-seeing" until rather late the night before.

So the dependable duo went before the TV cameras without "Red." They just casually mentioned during the live interview that Somethin' Smith was missing, and should any of the viewers happen to contact him (here the boys let slip the name of Red's hotel), would they PLEASE tell him he was wanted at the TV station? Within minutes, the switchboard at Smith's hotel was jammed with calls and his sleep was interrupted by the shrill ring of the 'phone—again and again.

And that, of course, was just what Saul and Major had planned.

TOGETHER 10 YEARS

Together for more than 10 years as one of the nation's favorite entertainment trio's, the zany redheads are currently on their 6th engagement in Atlanta. The talent-packed group is, on one hand, "closer than any other people in show business," or "not very friendly," depending upon whose viewpoint is preferred. Actually, they are a closely-knit unit; on stage or at home. Sympathy usually focuses on Smith—a natural target for the practical jokes of the other two dream up, such as the New Orleans telecast.

But Red is a bachelor by choice—and for purely selfish reasons.

"For instance," he explained, "I always wanted a boat. So when I had enough money, I just went out and bought one. (Now he's known as Capt. Smith up and down the Ohio river). If I'd been married, that money would have been spent on the wife, or the children maybe. Perhaps when I'm an old man—say around 50 or so—I'll be sorry I wanted to stay single. But I'm having too much fun as a bachelor to worry about that now."

MORE THAN SINGERS

He does, however, approve of the marriages of Saul and Major.

Saul and Major, both of whom have children, declare their wives are like most women, like to go out for dinner and dancing whenever the boys are at home.

"And taking them out can mean a pretty expensive evening," Saul added.

"That's another thing," Smith interjected. "I don't want to be able to see my wife only about once a month. Or have to spend $300 or more just to spend 24 hours with her."

A lighthearted, carefree group, the Redheads are more than a singing trio: They produce an enjoyable program of well - balanced entertainment that includes hilarious satire and new musical sounds that engulf the audience. They create their own special material, with Saul penning the music and Major writing the lyrics. Targets for their melodic madness range from famous personalities to weary stay-at-homes.

Atlantans remember their song about a penguin, climaxed when The Redheads put paper cups in their mouths to serve as beaks as they march off the stage. They marched off more hurriedly the night a member of the band smeared the insides of the cups with Limburger cheese.

DANCE CHAMPS—Marjorie Stembridge and Tommy Taylor are presented records and congratulations by WGST disc jockey Paul Drew as the couple was named dance champions at the first Friday night teen-age hop at the YWCA on Edgewood avenue. The dances, for all Atlanta-area students in grades eight through twelve, feature dance and disc jockey contests, as well as instruction in new dance steps. Paul and Forest Blount are hosts at the sessions, from 9:00 pm. until 11:15 p.m. each Friday night. The local disc jockeys broadcast the festivities "live" from the floor. Top singing stars will be guest performers later during the dance series.

Jimmy Golden Is Omega's Top FFA'er

OMEGA—Jimmy Golden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Golden, and a 10th grade student, has been named the outstanding Future Farmer of America of the Omega chapter.

The youth was selected on the basis of his 1957-58 record, which includes first place award in the chapter cotton contest, third in the corn contest, and the reserve championship in the Moultrie fat cattle show.

Ed S. Cook School Elects 'Y' Council

Newly elected council members of the YMCA 'Teen Center at Ed S. Cook School include Roy Popham, Martha Willoughby, Steve Mullis, Brenda Walters and Catherine Mitchell.

Jointly sponsored by the Hoke Smith Community Council and the Central Community Branch YMCA, the center is a popular gathering place for students of the Hoke Smith and Roosevelt high schools. Meeting each Monday from 7 p.m. until 9:30 p.m., teen-agers of the community enjoy dancing to the latest records, table tennis and other games, and, of course, the informal fellowship with their friends.

High school students in the vicinity are invited to become members.

Aircrafts Gain In Mixed Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Aircrafts rose and coppers fell in a mixed stock market. Trading was active.

Most key stocks gained or lost fractions to a point or so. Gains of aircrafts and related stocks went to 2 or more points.

American Motors was a conspicuous casualty, dropped 2¼ in some states of heavy selling. The stock has had a tremendous advance this year from a low of 8 to a high of 36. It was obvious that many thought the time had come to cash profits.

BRITISH STOCKPILE

Coppers wilted as a London dispatch quoted informed sources as saying the British government may release some stockpiled copper to counter the shortage and rising prices caused by mine strikes.

Anaconda fell ⅞, Kennecott 1⅛ and Magma 1.

Republic Aviation rose 2, Martin Co. 1½, General Dynamics 2⅞, American Bosch 2½ and Douglas ½.

For most of the list it was a churning market affected by cross-currents of profit taking, switching and renewed investment. Brokerage houses seemed to produce more than the usual share of advices to act according to the price chart patterns of specific stocks.

1,400,000 SHARES

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed as volume rose to 1,400,000 shares from 1,350,000 Thursday. Gainers included Creole Petroleum, Hazeltine, Mloybdenum and Woodley Petroleum. Among losers were Thiokol, Kaiser Industries, Campbell-Chibougamau and Mesabi Iron.

Corporate bonds fell in more active trading.

U.S. government bonds were mixed to lower in slack dealings over the counter.

Cotton Up .15, Off .35

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures closed 15 cents a bale higher to 35 cents lower.

The market eased in early dealings as light liquidation and hedging met limited trade and local buying.

In the final half-hour new crop deliveries firmed on the announcement of a 25 point rise in the mid-October cotton parity. Parity has a bearing on the loan on the 1959 crop. The Department of agriculture reported the October parity was 38.80 cents a pound, basis middling ⅞ inch cotton.

Current crop futures failed to show much rallying power as hedging continued throughout the session, partly representing pressure of trade selling against purchases of nearby December. A leading Houston spot firm bought about 4,000 bales of December against sales of May. Nearby December was only delivery to show a gain.

The weather in the cotton belt was mixed.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"Greater than threats from outside sources is the possibility of disintegration within our own country."
—Article Quote.

Now, having given due consideration . . . to what the great historians have to say . . . we come to the conclusion, every nation . . . moves on, in time, to ruin and decay . . . Rome, on her Seven Hills, in all her glory . . . and Babylon, with hanging garden walls . . . affirm and reaffirm the ancient story . . . a nation rises, flourishes and falls.

Each nation had some God, in the beginning . . . some temples where the people went to pray . . . for victory, but when they started winning . . . they turned their backs on Him and walked away . . . They took their altar fires and placed them under . . . the "fleshpots" and prepared a royal spread . . . and when you think of this, you do not wonder . . . that spirits starved in bodies overfed.

From generation unto generation . . . we first go up, and then go down the hill . . . you think that cannot happen to this nation??? We may be quite surprised to learn, it will.

Daily Guide—As we move into the last two months of this year we realize the need for decisions which will stick, but not until next month are we likely to get any clearcut and definite answers or action. There will seem to be a great deal of false activity, noise and talk.

In your own personal affairs you can note minor frustration delays, and conflicting activity.

Today is fairly neutral with some hope of smooth going in a mild way. Make it a home and family day with quiet pleasures and relaxation.

Excellent for Cancerians and Scorpians; favorable for Pisceans.

Happy Birthday, Scorpio! You must be aware that things are breaking for you now, and they could continue to break fast in the next few weeks.

Rewards for past efforts, greater popularity and social activity, and a chance to be more creative in your ideas are all possible right now.

There should be further opportunities in August and September of next year, but this period is best for breaking ground.

Some conflict may be under way again with mate, partners, or associates, from now until Feb. 10.

In July watch career or business changes; don't cut corners.
